ROBINSON BEGS FATE TO URGE ARBITRATION OF MEXICAN ROW

Says War Would Follow Withdrawal of Recognition of Calles and Lifting of Arms Embargo.

ENROOT STANDS WITH COOLIDGE

Harrison of Mississippi Calls on U. S. Not to Use Force Against a Weaker Nation.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Vivid pictures of the disastrous consequences that would flow from non-intervention in Mexico, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, in a speech today, appealed to the Senate to adopt his resolution putting that body on record in support of the difference between the United States and the Mexican governments.

The resolution came before the Senate today under a unanimous agreement that it should remain the order of business until disposed of. It had been approved by the Senate Foreign Relations committee by a vote of 13 to 3.
Senator Reed of Missouri being one of the minority.

Into a section of his speech dealing with American property rights in Mexico, Robinson dropped the remark that he had been informed in what appeared to be good authority that the large oil interests in Mexico, formerly owned by Lord Dunlop of Great Britain, had passed into the ownership of the Mexican government.

This was the second time that he reported transfer of the "ownership" of the oil interests to the Mexican government. In the first report, Robinson had mentioned in the Senate, Senator Tom Heflin (Dem.), Alabama, referred to the report that the oil interests had been transferred to the Mexican government.

American Money in Mexico.
Robinson said there was no doubt that the property interests of American nationals in Mexico were very large and important. Reports received from American consular officers, he said, indicated an aggregate value of $1,281,161,000, of which the largest item was $319,- 667,000 in oil lands, and the next largest $248,125,000 in railways.

Robinson declared that for some years prior to the introduction of his resolution the conviction had grown stronger every hour that the country was on the verge of a break with Mexico. Diplomatic efforts, he said, apparently had been exhausted. Speeches in both houses of Congress had discussed grave anxiety, and statements made by Secretary of State Caldwell had been resented by President Calles of Mexico as implying threat of war.

"The present report of the United States," he continued, "Senators and members of the House received appeals for the exercise of patience and for reference of the disputes to arbitration."

"The diplomatic agencies of the Government appeared discouraged and confronted with failure. The Senate was intended to revive and stimulate the agencies to earnest efforts to effect agreements in accordance with the well-known universal sentiment of the American people and of the United States."

Chance to Prove Good Faith.
"The pending disagreement with Mexico affords an impressive opportunity for the United States to demonstrate its good faith in the declaration, frequently repeated during the last 25 years, that our Government accepts and regards arbitration as an appropriate method for settling disputes between nations. It is in just such cases as have arisen between the Government and Mexico cases which involve property rights—which may be decided without sacrifice of justice to our nationals."

"The policy implied in the resolution, I stated upon the President and accepted by the Mexican Government, will relax the tension between the two countries, which has become so great as to threaten the continuance of peaceful relations."

"There seems to be a long established custom of shrouding diplomatic negotiations in secrecy and secrecy."

"This is in itself, calculated to insure suspicion and to fortify misunderstanding. Nothing could be more helpful than the frank and open proposal from our President that the two Governments arrange for arbitration."

Robinson suggested the Mixed Court Commission plan.

Fire Wrecks Temple Building After 57 Years of Service

Noon Hour Crowds Pack Streets in Vicinity of Broadway and Walnut to Watch $25,000 Blaze.

The old five-story Temple Building, at the northwest corner of Broadway and Walnut street, built in 1869 and one of the oldest office buildings in St. Louis, was damaged today during a two-hour fire which attracted thousands of noon-hour spectators from the business district.

After confining the flames to the two upper stories, Fire Chief Al estimated the damage at $25,000 to the building and contents. For a time, because of difficulty in reaching it with hose lines, it was feared the entire structure would be destroyed.
Fifteen fire companies strung hose lines over extension ladders and adjacent roofs, while the crowd milled about the equipment and packed Broadway for two blocks to the north.

Thirty Five to Street.
The fire started, it was said, in a cigar factory on the fourth floor and spread rapidly to the fifth,
where there was a photographer's gallery. About 30 men and women on the upper floors fled to the street, including William Vincent Byers, 70-year-old poet, essayist and former newspaperman, who was forced to abandon an office filled with rare old books and manuscripts on the fifth floor of the building.

REED TO OFFER $335,000,000
TAX REDUCTION AMENDMENT
Would Make It Part of Deficiency Bill and Put Senate on Record.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The Democratic proposal for a $335,- 000,000 tax reduction effective next year is to be offered as an amendment to the $175,000,000 deficiency bill now pending in the Senate.

The measure, as drawn by Representative Garner of Texas, ranking Democrat of the House Ways and Means Committee, will be offered by Senator Reed of Missouri.

Republican leaders said a point of order would be made against it on the ground that fiscal measures must originate in the House, and on the further ground that this would be general legislation on an appropriation bill. Some Democrats said that if such a point were made, the Senate would be put on record as to whether it wanted tax reduction at this time.

KISSING SENTENCES REDUCED
Terms of 3 Soldiers Reduced From 10 Years to Three Months.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 25.—Sentences of three Fort Crook soldiers, convicted by an army court-martial of forcibly kissing four girls, have been reduced by order of Secretary of War Davis.

The men, William W. Bullard, Springfield, Mass.; Odell Malone,
Hillsboro, Tex.; and Olin Shafer, Bellingham, Ind., were first sentenced to 10 to 15 years, with disonorable discharges, by Brigadier-General B. A. Poore, commander of the Seventh Corps area, reduced the sentences to one year. The Secretary of War's order, however, calls for three months' imprisonment and loss of pay during that time.

Engineer Killed in Train Wreck.
PEORIA, Ill., Jan. 25.—Edward E. Waldron of Peoria, locomotive engineer, was killed and four freight cars were wrecked when T.
P. & W. mixed train No. 2, westbound from Peoria, left the rails and overturned between Smithfield and Seville, Ill., at 11:30 o'clock this morning. At the offices of the T. P. & W. here it was said no one else was hurt, one passenger coach and the mail baggage coach remaining upright. The cause was not determined.

Police had difficulty in pushing the crowds back from the danger zone and occasionally a group was sprayed by water from a misdirected hose. Property on different floors was damaged by water and tar-paulins were spread in a cobbler's shop, book shop and floral shop on the first floor.

The Temple Building site was occupied from 1849 to 1867 by the Second Presbyterian Church, and in 1869 David Nicholson, a wholesale grocer, built the present structure, at a cost of $95,000, as a modern office building for lawyers.
It was named for and designed in imitation of the London Temple.
The center of the building housed an auditorium known as the Temple Theater, used during the early seventies for concerts, amateur theatricals, entertainments and road companies.

Leading Lawyers Officed There.
Through the late '90s leading lawyers of the city had offices in the building. On the second floor was the late Charles P. Johnson, celebrated criminal lawyer and Lieutenant-Governor of the State, in partnership with Judge William C. Jones.

In late years a wide variety of concerns have occupied the rooms, the present tenants including four cigar companies, an asphalt company, the G. A. R. and some labor unions.

ANTI-EVOLUTION BILL TO BE REPORTED TO THE HOUSE Committee of Legislature Amends
the Measure Eliminating Reference to Bible.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 25.—
The anti-evolution bill passed through the first stage of recreation today, when the House Committee on Education amended the measure to eliminate all reference to the Bible and the divine account of creation and unanimously voted that the amended bill be reported out to the House with a recommendation that it be adopted.

The bill probably will be made a special order of business when it comes up for engrossment in the House to permit full airing of views by the fundamentals and modernists.

FLORIDA RACE TRACKS REOPEN

Pompano and Tampa Downs Announce Reopening of Horse and Dog Racing.

By the Associated Press.
TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 25.— Granting of writs of superse-des by the State Supreme Court, pending further legal action, has resulted in announcements by officers of the Tampa Downs and Pompano Horse Club that racing would reopen quickly on their tracks. Racing at Tampa Downs is expected to begin tomorrow. The Court's order also temporarily prevented an injunction to prevent operation of the Hillsborough Kennel Club tracks at Tampa. It is planned to resume dog racing there tonight.

25 BELOW FOR DOG DERBY
The Pas, Manitoba, Opens Winter Carnival With Big Crowd.

By the Associated Press.
THE PAS, Manitoba, Jan. 25.—
With a temperature of 25 degrees below zero, a throng of Indians, traders, prospectors and townpeople gathered today for the beginning of the three-day 120-mile
The Pas dog derby and winter carnival.

Six teams of stout-hearted Northern dogs, cross breeds and hunks were entered for the first heat of 40 miles on an eight-mile course on the Saskatchewan River.

A Family of Consequence That's what your family becomes when you settle them in their own home.

In Russia, last century, the number of "souls" of serfs a man owned determined his status; titles indicated the consequence of a family in other lands.

But here, home ownership is the standard, and your family should have the position, happiness and security which a home confers.

The most desirable offers of St. Louis and Billings are homes and properties are listed over in the "Real Estate" columns at prices and on terms that should mean action now!

MRS. BROWNING BREAKS DOWN ON WITNESS STAND

Court Orders Recess After 16-Year-Old Wife Testifies for 25 Minutes in Husband's Suit.

HEARING PUBLIC;
YOUTHS EXCLUDED

Crowd Packs White Plains
Court to Listen to Testimony of Indignities Recited by Young Woman.

By the Associated Press.
WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 25.
Less than 20 minutes after the opening of the trial here today before Supreme Court Justice Seeger, Mrs. Frances ("Peaches") Heenan Browning, 16 years old, the second witness of the day, took the witness stand in the separation suit filed against her by her husband, 51-year-old New York real estate dealer, Edward West Browning.

She immediately began a self-confident accounting of her first meeting with her husband, at a dance of his alleged sponsored so-riety, whose Greek letters, she said, stood for "Pretty Little Things."

Mrs. Browning broke down in tears after 25 minutes of testifying and the Court declared a five-minute recess. She had been testifying of the first night she and her husband had passed together after the wedding.

She had testified that cruelties of her husband began immediately after the marriage. After the recess and an hour's testimony
by George Blakeslee, neurologist, Mrs. Browning continued her story, saying she was so pinched and scolded when she declined to obey Browning's commands that she finally had to submit to his every wish.

Gives Her Age as 16.
At 10:30 Mrs. Browning was sworn, and seated herself. She gave her age as 16 on June 23, 1926.

She said she first met Browning
at a McAlpin Hotel dance March 6, 1926, when escorted there by a young man friend named Morris.
The dance, she understood, was given by a girl's society, and 200 persons were present.

At 11 p. m. she said Browning arrived. He was pointed out to her standing in the middle of the ballroom, she said.

All the girls greeted him, she testified, and Ethel had introduced her to him later.

He asked if she was a member of the society, and if not, said he would like her to join and wear a pin, she testified.

Mrs. Browning said she saw Browning was when she accompanied him a few nights later, to the Everglades Club. Then followed a recital of many dances, parties, suppers and theater visits.

Browning, she said, had a pen-dant for green bangles, and used to carry "hundreds of them" and to bestow them one by one on any young woman who admired them.

He took her, she said, to "A Night in Paris" and bought her a book containing improper pictures.

Browning wanted to see her
every day after St. Patrick's day,
she said, but her mother objected.
If he couldn't see her in the evening, could he not see her in the afternoons, she testified that he asked. She said she then began to see him in the afternoons.

She said he proposed to her on the Saturday before March 27, the night on which she received myriad acid burns. She refused to marry him because of her youth, she said, but said if he married him at all, he would have to wait till after her sixteenth birthday. To this, she said, he agreed.

He took her, she said, to "A Night in Paris" and bought her a
book containing improper pictures.

Browning wanted to see her
every day after St. Patrick's day,
she said, but her mother objected.
If he couldn't see her in the evening, could he not see her in the afternoons, she testified that he asked. She said she then began to

PLANE TRAVELS 500 MILES CHEAPER AND FASTER THAN TRAIN

Cost Per Passenger $13.88 for Four and One-Half Hours; Rail Fare $16.28.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—A Wright-Bellanca cabin monoplane, piloted by Clarence Chamberlain and carrying six passengers, flew from Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., to Washington and return, 500 miles, in a total flying time of four and one-half hours yesterday. The cost per passenger was $13.88, whereas the minimum railroad fare for the 10-hour trip by rail is $16.28.

The plane consumed 46 gallons of gasoline averaging nearly 11 miles to the gallon, at a speed of more than 111 miles an hour.

NEWSPAPER AND WHISKY

Export of Thousands of Gallons of Liquor to United States Disclosed at Hearing.

By the Associated Press.
VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 25.—
Cash donations made to newspapers of British Columbia and exportation of thousands of gallons of liquor to the United States were disclosed yesterday before the royal commission investigating customs law violations.

Russell Whitelaw, director of the consolidated exporters of British Columbia, told how his company had contributed to Vancouver newspapers for no purpose at all.
"They asked for it and got it," he said. He added that his company had given $12,000 in two years to the Vancouver World before the paper was discontinued, and that gifts of from $1000 to $2500 had been made to the Vancouver Province and the Vancouver Sun for "special editions." The Consolidated Exporters did not do much display advertising, Whitelaw said, but the papers gave the company a certain amount of advertising in the special editions.

PHILADELPHIA BROKERAGE FIRM FAILS WHEN STOCK TUMBLES Great Plunge of Estey Wette Corporation Forces McCown & Co.
Into Insolvency.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25.—Mc-Cown & Co., stock brokers, today announced their insolvency.
The firm holds a large block of stock of the Estey Wette Corporation, which took a great downward plunge on the New York Curb Market yesterday.

The insolvency of the firm was announced on the Philadelphia stock exchange when the market opened at 10 o'clock.

McCown & Co., whose principal member, E. C. McCown Jr., is a 25-year-old son of the late E. C.
McCown, a prominent Philadelphia broker, knew yesterday there would be a drive made on the stock and sent orders for 5000 shares instead of the 1000 shares which they had ordered.

At 11 p. m. the Philadelphia stock exchange had declined from 4 1/2 to 2 1/2, while the B stock was traded down from 18 to 10 1/2.

FACES LIFE IMPRISONMENT FOR ENTERING EMPTY ROOM
New York Burglar Convicted
Fourth Time and Banished Law
Five Years.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Gerald Fonseca, 27 years old, must spend the rest of his life in the penitentiary for entering a vacant room in a hotel.

One morning last December Fonseca, a watchman of the Hotel Navarre walking into the empty room. He was arrested.
The prosecution contended force was used to open the door and that Fonseca had made his crime burglary. With three prior jail sentences on Fonseca's record, a fourth conviction meant a life sentence under the statutes.

After 30 minutes of deliberations
the jury found Fonseca guilty.

GASTON B. MEANS MUST SERVE ANOTHER TWO YEARS
He Had Expected To Leave Federal Prison Thursday, But He Won't.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 25.—Instead of leaving the Federal prison here Thursday, as he had expected to do, Gaston B. Means, a former department of Justice agent, will begin another two-year term for conspiracy. Warden Snook yesterday received from St. Louis the commitment on the second count of the original indictment on which Means was convicted three years ago.

Means was convicted of conspiracy, the evidence showing he accepted money from a Philadelphia firm in his representation that he would induce Department of Justice officials to deal leniently with the firm for alleged violation of the Federal statutes. Two sentences of two years each and fines of $20,000 were imposed, but it had been supposed the sentences would run concurrently.

CASHIER'S $60,000 SHORTAGE
CLOSES BANK IN KENTUCKY

O. H. Vardaman, Formerly of Mis-

Money Speculating.

By the Associated Press.
SHELBYVILLE, Ky., Jan. 25.—
The People's Bank and Trust Co.
here was closed today by S. A.
Phillips, Deputy State Banking Commissioner. An examination yesterday disclosed a shortage of $60,000 in the accounts of O. H.
Vardaman, assistant cashier. When arrested he was said to have told the examiners that the embezzlement covered three or four years and that he had lost the money in gold mines, oil stocks and other speculations.

Vardaman, who was ordered held in jail, came here in 1914, after being connected with banks at Amherst and Haverhill, Tex. The Federal Reserve Bank and the Commercial Trust Co. at Kansas City.
He has a wife and four children and was prominent in social life of Shelbyville.

The People's Bank was organized in 1905, with a capital stock of $75,000 and a surplus of $20,000.
The 1926 financial statement showed assets of $567,378.84.

CHAPLIN ARRANGES FOR RELEASE OF $600,000 Government to Allow Actor to Post Bond for Funds Under Lien in New York Bank.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The Government today agreed to permit Charlie Chaplin, motion picture comedian, to obtain money he has in a New York bank and against which an income tax lien had been placed. He will be permitted to post a bond on the funds in the New York bank, which are estimated at more than $600,000.

The Government liens against more than $1,000,000 of Chaplin's funds and property in California, however, will stand out of which his wife, Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin, is seeking to collect alimony. No attempt to release the California funds has been made by Chaplin's

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Three employees of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel were arrested today, charged with the theft of $40,000 from the hotel by means of false waiters' checks. Two women cashiers, police said, were supplied with the false checks by an auditor. The women, it was alleged, would give them to the waiters instead of genuine ones, for which they are to account. The amount of the checks turned in by waiters was pocketed.

Defense Counsel Pleads
That President and A. F.

The charge that Forrest Ferguson, president of the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co., personally directed the details of the false representations made to banks, by which the concern obtained $3,- 350,000 in loans before its collapse in 1925 with a loss to creditors of more than $1,500,000, was made today to the Federal Court jury which is trying Ferguson and Alfred F. Baggot, secretary of the company, on indictments charging use of the mails to defraud and conspiracy.

United States District Attorney
Breuer made this charge in outlining the Government's case to the jury, which consists of six residents of St. Louis and six from outside the city.

The defense plea, made in behalf of Ferguson by Attorney E.
W. Foristel, was that he followed the late Murray Carleton "blindly." Foristel pictured Carleton, who was treasurer of Ferguson-McKinney and head of the allied Carleton Dry Goods Co., as the dominant force of all the concerns.

Annual Sale of Kuppenheimer Suits

The Clothing Event of Supreme Importance Begins Wednesday Morning at 8 o'Clock

$29 & $39

ANOTHER of our great Kuppenheimer Sales begins Wednesday—a significant announcement to thousands of men who have participated in our former editions of this event. Choice of more than 2000 Kuppenheimer Suits offers buying opportunities of compelling interest for young men, older men, conservative men and men who like a dash of youth in their clothing.

These Suits conform to Kuppenheimer's usual high standard of quality. They are of medium weight, the kind that St. Louis men wear the year round, and include the newest ideas for the season.

Each year thousands of men purchase liberally in this event, knowing that they get the same fabrics, tailoring, fit and patterns that ordinarily cost much more.

This year the quantity and variety are unusually wide, and the prices, as always, are extremely low, making this unquestionably the clothing buying opportunity of the season.

WOODS REJECTED BY SENATE FOR PLACE ON I. C. C.

Vote Against Confirmation
Was 49 to 28—Reed of Missouri Spoke Against Him.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—President Coolidge's nomination of Cyrus E. Woods of Pennsylvania, former Ambassador to Spain and Japan, for member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, has failed of confirmation in the Senate by a surprisingly large majority.

In rejecting the nomination yesterday by a vote of 49 to 28 after a three-day battle in executive session, the Senate added another name to the now rather large list of Coolidge appointments that it has found unacceptable, and blasted for the time being at least, Pennsylvania's hope for representation on the commission.

The nomination of Woods will not be resubmitted, it was said today at the White House.

Indorsed by Mellon.
Woods, who twice before had been confirmed as an Ambassador, had been indorsed by Secretary Mellon and Senators Pepper and Reed of the Keystone State. The latter has been active in attempts to have a Pennsylvania citizen placed on the commission, declaring in the Senate and in addresses elsewhere that his State was entitled to such representation because of its importance.

Woods' opponents, quoted freely from these addresses in arguing against confirmation. They contended that the main purpose behind the move to have Pennsylvania thus represented was to give the soft coal operators of that State an additional advantage in the lake cargo freight rate controversy with Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Woods had assured the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee that he would not participate in the lake cargo case now pending, but the committee rendered an adverse report on his nomination.

Reed Against Woods.
Senator Goff (Rep., West Virginia), led off the final round of debate with a speech against confirmation and was followed by Senator Willis (Rep.) of Ohio, in favor of Woods. Senator Reed (Dem.) of Missouri, then spoke in opposition with Pepper appealing for confirmation.

Woods participated in Pennsylvania's recent $2,000,000 Republican primary campaign as liaison officer between the organizations of Senator Pepper and John S. Fisher, the successful candidate for Governor.

Before that, he had several years service as an Ambassador, being appointed to Madrid by President Harding and later transferred to Tokio. He was in the Japanese capital during the earthquake of 1923 and rendered conspicuous services as a leader of the American relief forces.

Senator Reed (Rep.) of Pennsylvania opposed the nomination of Thomas F. Woodlock of New York and Richard V. Taylor of Alabama, as commissioners at the last session serving notice that he would oppose all such appointments until his State was reorganized. Before the Woodlock and Taylor nominations came to a vote, however, Senator Reed withdrew his opposition.

Hawes for Reed Against Confirmation of Woods.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The two Missouri Senators, Reed and Hawes, have taken an opposite sides of the two main issues which the Senate has debated behind closed doors during the present session. Hawes voted for and Reed against the ratification of the Lausanne treaty with Turkey. Hawes voted for and Reed against the confirmation of Cyrus E. Woods as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

CORN HUSKING IS HALTED

Work Is Stopped, Although Much Grain Is in Fields.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PAXA, Ill., Jan. 25.—Corn husking has been brought to a standstill in Central Illinois, although there are many acres of corn standing in shocks. Edward Churchill of Island has 200 acres standing in the field and it is feared it may prove a total loss. He had hoped to husk the corn with a machine, but owing to the muddy fields he found this impossible and also found a scarcity of hands. Chalmer Hinehart, a neighbor of Churchill, has 100 acres unhusked and Carter Wisegarver and C. E. England, also of near Island, have large acreages still in the field.

A. W. Pauley Not in Busch Firm.
A. W. Pauley of 3518 Hebert street today said that he was not a member of the firm of William A. Busch & Co., defendant in a suit filed Saturday in Circuit Court by John Hamm, 4162 Russell boulevard. Hamm alleged he was induced by false representations to invest $23,400 in what purported to be first mortgage bonds on apartment buildings in Cleveland, O. The suit named the Busch firm and said it was composed of William A. Busch, his son, William, and Pauley. Pauley said: "I never was a member of the firm mentioned and had absolutely nothing whatever to do with selling the bonds described."

POISONED ALCOHOL SUSPECTED IN DEATH

Five Saloon Men Held for Coroner Pending Inquest in Teamster's Case.

Two saloonkeepers and three bartenders are held for the Coroner following an investigation into the case of Oliver Mundy, 25 years old, teamster, of 2225 South Second, who died Sunday night at city hospital under circumstances which indicate that he may have drunk liquor containing wood alcohol.

A Coroner's inquest this morning was deferred until a chemical analysis can be made. The preliminary autopsy report shows that Mundy suffered from heart disease, nephritis and chronic alcoholism, and that any one or a combination of these causes may have been responsible for his death.

The saloonkeepers held are William Wagner of 627 Shenandoah avenue and Joseph Feigenbutz of 2261 South Broadway, his cousin who has the same name, and is employed by Wagner, and Carl Back and William Biele, bartenders for Feigenbutz. At the inquest today all of them denied having sold liquor to Mundy, but testified that they knew him as a hard drinker.

Police who arrested the saloon men after a friend of Mundy's told them he had been drinking at these places reported they found liquor at both saloons.

MARINES BEING MOBILIZED
500 Withdrawn From Guarding Mails and Others Will Follow.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Five hundred marines were withdrawn today from the mail guard. They will be concentrated at the marine bases at Quantico, Va., and San Diego, Cal. An additional 500 for similar concentration, will be withdrawn from their present assignment of guarding the mails on or before Feb. 15.

Recently an emergency marine battalion of marines was organized at San Diego, to be held for any contingency that might arise. The detachment of 300 at Guam now is under orders to move to Cavite, Philippine Islands, to be nearer the trouble zone in China, but thus far no orders have been issued to replace them at Guam. Should the battalion now at San Diego be moved to Guam, its place presumably would be taken by the new detachment to be assembled from the men withdrawn from the mail guard.

Charge Purchases made remainder of month entered on February statements, payable in March.

ORCHID SHOW OPENS AT SHAW'S GARDEN

Display of 1000 Exotic Blosoms Will Continue for Two Weeks.

Two kinds of enchantment are woven by the magic and orchid-magic at Shaw's Garden where the annual orchid show opened today in the floral display house and it has charmed the ground and won the trees.

How soon the orchids will fade is uncertain, for it depends upon varieties of the sun and the weather, or birds, which conspire to play strange pranks at this season. The orchids will continue for two weeks, while 1000 flowers bloom in various colors.

These flowers literally are sacrificed to their admirers, as truly as any sainted Pietre who lived herself to death. The plants have been taken to Gray's Summit to live, free of any smoke in the garden. The orchids are of the most exquisite shades of color and bring into the city to bloom
and die.

This year's show is the first since the grounds were removed to Gray's Summit. The orchids are of the most exquisite shades of color and bring into the city to bloom
and die.

In fact, the orchids are displayed
just like jewels of velvet, laced with gold, and contrasted with such a soft attraction is found in the flowers, shown in exclusion of the leaves of green. The orchids are of the most exquisite shades of color and bring into the city to bloom
and die.

Their money value would almost entire them to a place in a jewelry window. A bouquet of orchids is a gift that is almost enough to postpone the wedding, it is so beautiful. Most of these are in 25 rare varieties of Pinipan and 25 of Pini de Mayo, from the Andes, brought back by George H. Pini, horticulturist of the garden from his famous orchid land in Colombia. Notably among even the orchids, however, is a French hybrid, Pini obtained two years ago on another search in Europe, a large white-fringed André Marion, blooming for the first time in the country. With orchids suspended from trees, to show their home life in the tropics, are several curiously shaped staghorn ferns, which grow with the orchids in Australia. They demand the same climate and altitude and grow on trees.

Dominating Philadelphia's Morning Field

In— CIRCULATION, ADVERTISING and POPULARITY

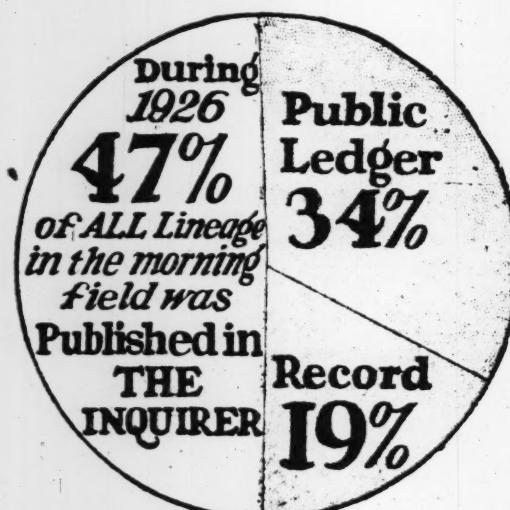

DOMINATING IN POINT of CIRCULATION

Concentrated Circulation means much to the advertiser. The bulk of The Philadelphia Inquirer's circulation is massed in the City of Philadelphia and its immediate suburbs. In this combined territory The Inquirer predominates with 51% of the total circulation of all Philadelphia Sunday newspapers and 56.6% of the total daily morning circulation. In newspaper advertising there is a truth that amounts to an axiom: "In advertising it is coverage that counts!"

FIRST IN VOLUME of GENERAL ADVERTISING

The Inquirer's lead in Display advertising has been beyond question for years. For years this leadership has steadily increased. Last year (1926) 47% of ALL General advertising published in Philadelphia morning papers appeared in The Inquirer.

INQUIRER 21,893,400 Lines

Public Ledger 15,836,400 Lines

Record 8,805,000 Lines

UNEQUALED VOLUME of CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

Year in and year out The Philadelphia Inquirer leads the entire Pennsylvania Field—morning and Sunday in Classified advertising. During 1926 52.5% of ALL Classified advertising appeared in The Inquirer—And remember what leadership in this class of advertising indicates as to the popularity and reputation for reader interest throughout the medium's circulation!

Advertisers talk much about "reader confidence" and its bearing on the possible results to be obtained by the advertising investment. The Philadelphia Inquirer has left nothing undone to give those words added weight. Its news is gathered from unlimited sources—its editorial staff boasts brilliant men—its special features are the best obtainable. And, in addition, all advertising accepted must be clean and beyond suspicion. In short, a vast amount of money, time and energy has been expended in the effort to publish the finest possible newspaper. No stronger proof of its success could be offered than its leadership in the Pennsylvania morning field in circulation, advertising and popularity.

GUARANTEE For Years The Philadelphia Inquirer has absolutely guaranteed that every morning in the year, before breakfast is served over 75% of Philadelphia's worthwhile homes have received their copies of The Philadelphia Inquirer from the hands of never-failing carriers.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE FUND INQUIRY HELD UP

Inability of Resolution's Author to Support Charges Causes Halt in House.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 25.—A resolution calling for an investigation of the merits and expenditures of the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, in its campaign for legislative reform of the criminal code, struck a snag in the House Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence last night, when its author, Representative Jerome Walsh of Kansas City, was unable to present any facts supporting charges of excessive expenditures. Walsh's resolution had been slated for a favorable report from the committee to the House but, after an hour of discussion without any tangible matters being presented, the committee decided to hold the resolution over for several days. The committee was said to be divided in opinion, in an executive session after the hearing, and no vote was taken on the report.

$500,000 Fund Charge Made. Charges were made in the resolution that the association had raised a fund of $500,000 to carry on its campaign for adoption of the code reform bills, that it was being sponsored by corporate interests and that more than $150,000 had been spent in "flooding" the State with propaganda matter "to intimidate the members of the General Assembly" into support of the proposals.

When Walsh appeared before the committee last night, he admitted he had no facts to substantiate the charges. He said they were based on rumors current here and in Kansas City, which should be investigated to determine if they were true.

When asked if he could produce any witnesses who could give facts, Walsh suggested the committee might call in the treasurer of the association and his books, and require a full report on expenditures.

It is known several members of the committee favored a recommendation that the resolution be adopted by the House, and there is some sentiment for it on the floor of the House, but this apparently is based on antagonism among lawyers toward the association's program of abolishing technicalities of the criminal law.

Extensive Survey Demanded. Representative J. L. Walsh, member of St. Louis said he saw no objection to a group of men raising a large sum of money to carry on a program of education for legislation, so long as the money was not obtained or spent dishonestly.

A favorable attitude toward an investigation was taken by Jones H. Parker of St. Louis, who said, however, that he would vote for "some of the stuff offered by the association."

HOTEL DOOR BROKEN DOWN TO TAKE WOMAN TO HOSPITAL. Mrs. Louisa Kirtley, 70, Taken on Court Order, Son Alleging She Is Insane.

Mrs. Louisa Kirtley, 70 years old, was taken to City Hospital yesterday after Probate Judge Hotchkiss, at the request of her son, ordered that she be held for observation. Lloyd Kirtley, the son, who lives at 4336 Washington, declared, says that she is insane and asks that he be appointed her guardian. He estimates her worth at $20,000. A hearing on his petition will be held Feb. 4.

Mrs. Kirtley was taken from the Terminal Hotel, where she had been since she disappeared from Kirtley's home Jan. 19. She had looked twice in a room and refused to admit anyone. After her disappearance, Kirtley supposed that she had returned to Quincy, Ill., her former home.

When Deputy Sheriff's broke into her room yesterday to take her to the hospital they found $125 in money, a new fur coat purchased at a downtown department store and bearing a $150 price tag, several diamond rings, and a valuable fur tie. There were pieces of chocolate candy wrapped in a large bundle of tissue paper, and a quantity of Christmas tree decorations which she had taken with her from Kirtley's home.

WIRES TRIBUTE TO VETERAN. CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 25.—A tribute to the gallantry and fidelity of Brigadier General John McCausland of the Confederate Army, who died Saturday, was received today by the Charleston Daily Mail from Gen. Felix H. Robertson, last surviving general officer of the Southern army. The tribute was in a telegram from Waco, Tex., in which Gen. Robertson said:

"Being a member of Gen. McCausland's address, please forward this as my tribute to a splendid Southern leader. Confederate recognize his worth, gallantry and fidelity during the unfortunate days of the Civil War. From my valley to yours, always an officer and a gentleman. The son surviving Brigadier General of the Confederate Army, Felix H. Robertson. Future service for Gen. McCausland were held today."

Newspaper 90 Years Old Today. In the Associated Press. NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25.—The New Orleans Times-Picayune celebrated its ninety-third birthday today. Several months ago the newspaper adopted a chair of journalism at Tulane University in honor of its coming anniversary. Since the newspaper was established in January, 1837, New Orleans has grown from 65,000 to 450,000 population. St. Ochs of the New York Times.

Pellets were received today, among others, from Ralph Pulitzer, who said the New York Times and Adolph S. Ochs of the New York Times.

By the Associated Press

London, Jan. 23.—About 12,000 men, supported by artillery, armoured cars and equipment, and under the command of Major-General John Duncan, soon will be on the way to China. They are being sent to defend the British concession in Shanghai of the Chinese adopt a belligerent attitude there.

The War office in announcing the composition of the "Shanghai defense force," dispelled any doubt that the force existed over the provisions being taken to deal with the situation.

General Duncan, whose experience covers the campaign in Gallipoli and Eastern Europe in the World War, will have in his defense force the Third and Fourth British Infantry Brigades and the Tenth Indian Infantry Brigade. Among the infantry units is a battalion of the Coldstream Guards, which is ordered abroad only on rare occasions. These troops, added to those already on the scene, will bring the number prepared to defend British interests to about 18,000.

While parliamentary sanction for the measures is not needed, as they are not in the nature of general mobilization, the Government, to forestall criticism when Parliament meets, has authorized the opposition leader, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, and Lord George, of what it has done.

Opposition Leaders in Doubt.
There is doubt in the minds of Liberals over the justification for the mobilization and Liberal newspapers express fear that the Government is oversteering the situation.

Mr. MacDonald, former Premier and Labor leader, who has already emphasized to the press that although the Government kept him informed of the preparations, he was not in a position to be heard with them, has given a statement to the Daily News, expressing alarm at the "extraordinary information" which is being spread in the press, and the state of official utterance, and with a "discreet" disclaimer of any statement that the Government may be prepared to make. He said: "I am in a position to keep this point in the mind."

Forum of Hadrian Due Up

Largest Roman Building in Britain Found at Worcester

By the Associated Press
Worcester, England, Jan. 23.—Recent excavations by English archaeologists at the site of the Roman town of Eborac, near here, have uncovered the largest Roman building yet found in Britain. A shattered tablet found in the entrance identified the place as a forum on a grand place erected by the Emperor Hadrian, A.D. 120.

Other buildings have been discovered and all show that the city was destroyed by fire. Several ancient skeletons have been found. One of these, that of a man, was discovered in a "hypocaust," or heating chamber for a bath.

Compulsory Liability Insurance.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
MAY I say a word and invoke your editorial pen in favor of the bill in Legislature making insurance (liability) compulsory.

Concrete cases offer the best argument, so will state one for your and your readers' attention:

On the nineteenth of October, 1926, three boys were on their way home from night school. They stood on the corner of Finney and Taylor waiting for a street car. It was a dark and rainy night. An automobile driven by a girl (a minor) was so carelessly driven as to strike a lamp post and then the three boys down. The boys were carried on the front of the machine through the glass window of a store. One of the boys has a fractured skull (will probably never make a complete recovery), one has a dislocated shoulder and the third was so cut and bruised he almost died to death—had a blood transfusion and after three months is barely able to be about. The girl driver was admitted to bail before it was known that the injured had a chance to recover.

The automobile has been repaired and is in service.
None of the boys (nor the parents) has received one dollar toward the expenses they incurred while in the hospital or since they left it.

The girl's father owned the machine and permitted her to use it, so he is liable. She has no property and is a minor and is still permitted to drive.

It would be a different story, if this automobile owner carried insurance. The victims would at least have a slight chance of recovering the wages they have lost and doctor and nursing fees.

It is only the "devil-may-care" owner-driver who does not carry insurance now. The respectable, responsible citizen carries insurance for his own and others' protection at all times.

A BOOSTER FOR PROTECTION.

"Discontented Feminists."

With reference to your editorial "Discontented Feminists" (1-22-27), permit me, in behalf of the entire feminine world, to thank you for your sympathy; but with regard to your simile of the child who cried for the life-like doll, are you quite sure that she really did cry for it? That destiny has not thrust it into her unwilling hands?

Since Mother Nature provides everything in her kingdom with equipment essential to its peculiar state, it is not possible that man's unwillingness to play fair has caused "Dumb Dora" to grow wits? Anyway, isn't it rather a flimsy excuse to offer for his lack of "chivalry and decency?"

River Front Plans.

IN MY day the busiest part of our city was the levee, with 10 wharf boats and boat lines going up and down the Mississippi River. Now, after the Government's venture in part restores our river to the place it should always have occupied as a means of transportation, we all at once make a stab at building proper terminals for the oncoming water fleets. Let us see how we did this. So far, we built a costly dock at North Market street. Why at such an out-of-the-way place? Next South St. Louis was too far from this dock. So we built another at foot of Rutger street, but the rail approach is supposed to be too weak to carry heavily loaded cars. So, now there it is. Next our Mayor and some architects went to Chicago to view the water front there. A short time after this a sketch appeared, purporting to show our water front needs, viz., a piaz extending from Valentine street to Morgan street. To help river traffic, I suppose? When, oh, when will we ever get to earth again?

Suppose we forget all this dream of beautifying a section of our city that was, and now is only the logical place for business that is built up by traffic. We put Commission Row on the levee? It is a kind of business that should be where freight is handled. If the Third street scheme for a double-deck street is feasible, why not build large warehouses east of it, and store automobiles in them up to the top floors, by proper lifts and ramps? But don't mix the business needs of the water front with plans for beautiful parks, where smoke will not even get near grow.

Street Car Improvement.

REFERRING to some recent letters in this column upon the subject of street car crowding, if the United Railways Co. would make vestibuled two-car trains from a number of old-model cars, they could add greatly to their service without additional cost in wages. Costs incident to alterations of cars and power load increase, seemingly, would not be an obstacle.

W. B.

THE MEXICAN DEBATE.

The Senate debate on Senator Robinson's arbitration resolution, which received the approval of the Foreign Relations Committee by a vote of 13 to 3, would be more enlightening and effective if Mr. Coolidge or Secretary Kellogg would lay all the facts and the communications touching Mexican relations and the land controversy before the country.

Mr. Coolidge has indicated his views of the Mexican question under shelter of the White House Spokesman, whose expressions of opinion in behalf of the President are irresponsible and not officially authorized. Through the spokesman the public gets a glimpse of Mr. Coolidge's mind, but it lacks definite information and authorized statements.

It is given out that Mr. Coolidge has authorized no one to speak for him in the Senate debate. He is detached from the debate, and is merely a listener-in. It is natural that Mr. Coolidge should want to find out definitely what public opinion is with respect to the Mexican controversy, before committing himself. But on the other hand Mr. Coolidge is the American representative in the controversy. He is the chief executive of the nation, in charge of its interests, and authorized to speak for it. He knows all the facts. He ought to take the American people into his confidence, at least so far as the facts are concerned, so that there may be an enlightened judgment on whatever ultimate policy we may decide to undertake.

Let us have an understanding on fundamentals. We are not opposed, and we believe that the great majority of Americans are not opposed, to the principle of property rights for which Mr. Coolidge is said to stand. We do not approve of confiscation of valid titles to land or mineral rights. We approve wholeheartedly of protection of American lives and legitimate American rights and interests. But there is no question of American lives at stake, and how far is the principle of property rights involved? Are they so far involved that we cannot stand for the principle of rights, and yet submit controverted questions to impartial arbitration? May we not submit even the question as to whether they are involved, and thus bring Mexico to the essential point in the controversy? Does Mexico herself insist upon confiscation?

The whole point is that we should have open, not secret, diplomacy, and we should be wholeheartedly for the settlement by arbitration of every adjudicable question in connection with the Mexican controversy. It is a matter of profound regret to thousands of admirers of Senator Reed of Missouri that he has taken a stand unqualifiedly against arbitration. It reveals his mind more nearly fixed than ever against the processes of peaceful adjustment of foreign relations and international controversies by the methods of reason instead of arbitrary ultimatums and force. Mr. Coolidge himself has not said that he was opposed to arbitration of the Mexican controversy. He has said that he favors the arbitration method whenever it is available, and has made it understood that he has an open mind on the question of applying arbitration to the Mexican problem. Senator Reed apparently is unalterably opposed to arbitration.

Meanwhile, there is abundant evidence of the sentiment of the American people, in the resolutions and representations made to the President by organizations and men of light and leading in all parties. The issue is of the highest importance, and is fraught with tremendous possibilities for the future.

CALL TO ARMS.

Isn't it about time the Illinois Antisoon League stepped into the breach for Col. Frank L. Smith and defended him against the calumnies of the United States Senate?

The league looked all the candidates over in the Illinois senatorial election, and supported Smith. It knew all about the slush fund made up for him in the primaries by the public utilities.

It knew everything the Senate knows. Where is it now? Smith was its man before the people of Illinois. Isn't he its man before the Senate?

Calro, Ill., was in darkness the other day, showing that small towns like to put on big city airs.

BAN JOHNSON'S EXIT.

Baseball's winter of discontent has had a crowded calendar. The dismissal of Cobb and Speaker, Risberg's unsavory memoirs, tattlings of suppressed scandals, the transfer of Hornsby to New York, a legitimate business transaction which revealed our national game as untainted by the faintest smudge of sentiment or sportsmanship, and finally the ousting of Ban Johnson from the presidency of the American League.

Johnson's day of usefulness had probably passed. His health is shattered. Regardless of that, there never was room in baseball for Johnson and Landis. When the crookedness of the 1919 world series was belatedly exposed a full year after its occurrence, baseball faced its moral Waterloo. The harassed magnates knew something had to be done. They made a magnificent gesture by invading the Federal judiciary and hoisting Judge Landis to the chardom of baseball, with royal prerogatives and royal perquisites.

That was really Johnson's finish. Caesar had been reduced to the second man in Rome. MacGregor's seat was no longer the head of the table. Napoleon was at Elba.

They came to bury him at Chicago Sunday, those American League magnates, and they did bury him, though the Internet was gently conducted, with what Schopenhauer would call "the hieroglyphics of grief." Presently they will praise him. When that occasion arrives they will say:

Whatever of dignity baseball possesses today it owes to Ban Johnson. Before him it was more or less of a tolerated nuisance, a saloon annex, with colorful figures, to be sure, with an occasional man of force and character in its playing and administrative personnel, but hoodlumism in the ascendant. Johnson was a power for honesty, cleanliness, respectability. The Cobbs, the Speakers, the Hornsbys and all the other stars, the managerial eminence of the McGraws, the golondras of ownership which has made so many magnates rich—the opportunity for all such careers is baseball's debt to Ban Johnson.

So, too, is the $65,000 job of ex-Judge Landis. The king is dead. Long live the Panjandrum!

Thirty-five American university professors have petitioned Mr. Coolidge to arbitrate with Mexico. They are not, however, altogether the same professors who induced Mr. Mellon to forgive Europe her war debts.

BORAH'S DUAL NATURE.

Senator Borah can shake his mane and roar like a lion; he can also be bland as a pussy cat. His article in The Nation's Business is a thunderous warning against the evils of centralization. It shows Borah at his best, as a patriot who sees in the onward march of Federal empire the disintegration of our Government as it was constructed by the founders. He is truly eloquent as he views the results of the modern tendency to look to Washington to supply a magic cure for all our ailments. "Inspectors and spies," says Borah, "will leer upon the citizen from every street corner and accompany him hourly in his daily vocation. Taxes will be $40 per capita. Forty per cent of the national income will be demanded for the public expense. We will have a republic in name, but a bureaucracy in fact."

So speaks Borah, the statesman. Borah, the politician, hums another tune. The latter is the foremost advocate of prohibition enforcement, the symbol of centralization, in whose wake follows all the evils which Borah, the statesman, declaims against. No other law or group of laws is as effective as the eighteenth amendment in putting gendarmes on every street corner to spy on the private doings of citizens, or in undermining the spirit in which the Constitution was written. No other law is such a drain on the taxpayers' pocketbooks.

No doubt there is some way of reconciling the dual nature of Borah, but we do not know what it is. We cannot trace the subtle line that leads from his generalizations to his particularities. On its face, the inconsistency is as broad as a barn door. It admits only of this explanation: that Borah's advocacy of prohibition is the sop he throws to his political ambitions. However melancholy a comment that may be upon a man who ranks so high in our public life, it must stand.

APPEAL TO REASON.

That mixing up art, letters and box constrictors with home rule was as good a way to defeat this good cause as any, has by this time become certain.

Our pre-eminent statesman and half-triggered diplomatist, the Mayor of St. Louis, together with his shortsighted aids, would drag in with home rule the Library, the Art Museum and the Zoo, with the consequence that a very excellent objective has been lost sight of in a wilderness of bad ones.

It is not too late to withdraw the bills which the Legislature has easily identified as a mere effort to bring three more St. Louis institutions to the Republican pie counter. The Democratic Senate is not going to lend itself to feeding any more pie to St. Louis Republicans, so nothing of that sort is going to happen.

What should happen might happen by confining the legislative program of the city hall to something we can get and ought to have.

Only 45 people turned out at Kansas City to hear Almee McPherson, whose lecture tour looks as if it were going to be the first spring washout.

HOW TO GET ECONOMY.

Though Missouri is admittedly in great need of some plan of public economy, the State is in danger of not getting it from the present Legislature. Demagogism has raised its hypocritical head against the plan of the Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures, and legislators who do not want useless jobs abolished are declaring that the connection of the association with the Associated Industries is proof that the plan is just an attempt of capitalists to put something over on the plain people.

In this emergency, we, as a friend of the plan, desire to offer a suggestion to the Associated Industries. We propose that it abandon the Missouri Association for Economy, and employ instead a few professional reformers of the Antisoon League kidney to do its lobbying. The latter would do what the former could not hope to accomplish—to wit: It would make the economy issue a moral one, and hence make it appeal to the emotions, whereas, now, its appeal is solely to the intelligence. And if that alone would not insure its success the fact that professional drys were pushing it would certainly do so. A class of reformers who can induce a Government to poison its citizens ought to be able to get away with anything.

Charlie Chaplin's moral life may be terrible, but that doesn't make his antics as a comedian one whit less funny.

HERE'S HOW!

That mysterious person, the average man, has at last been identified. He has been routed out of his rendezvous by Senator Wadsworth of New York.

While discussing the dry law the other day Mr. Wadsworth called to the witness stand that chap whom we all have met so often but have never seen. The average man, he said, may know that his neighbor has bought liquor from a bootlegger, but does he notify the authorities? Not he. Again, the average man, in his normal social experience, has seen his dearest friends in the presence of the loveliest ladies, but never a chirp from him, nor from the loveliest ladies, either.

So the average man is you and I and all the rest of us, male and female. He is everybody. And with everybody conspiring against it, how, asks the Senator, can this dry law be enforced? There is one hope—"one struggling ray of light 'twixt gloom and gloom." Remember the only snitch in our history to wear the single star of a Brigadier-General. The dry law will be enforced as soon as the scientists in the laboratory at Westerville, O., discover a process for Smedley-D-Butlerizing the average man.

In a religious revival at Magnolia, Miss., the pentitent people brought their playing cards, phonographs, radio outfits, the celebrated Book of Knowledge, and everything else that demoralizes and makes us worldly, and threw it on a bonfire. Then they went home in their automobiles.

Scotland is having a few light earthquakes, but nothing to shake a Scot loose from his roll.

From the St. Paul Pioneer Press.

OF concern to every American who claims a prideful share in the sanctions of his country in the House of Representatives, sponsored in the House by Representative Sears of Nebraska. This bill would designate the columbine as the national flower. It directs the President of the United States to make it such by official proclamation. Now this is no infant crusade, sprung on an unsuspecting public without warning. It is a full-blown movement, venerable in years, backed by organization of enthusiasts, eager for converts and prepared to squelch dissent. Back in 1896 the Columbine Association, with offices in Boston, began urging that its favorite become the national flower. Item: The proper name suggests Columbus. Its common name, honeysuckle, suggests sweetness and peace, says Item. The bloom and its leaves are of component parts, says E. Pluribus Unum. But the argument and the symbolism are not conclusive. It appears that the exact and scientific name of the species to be thus glorified is aquilegia vulgaris. And that, alas, is not our beloved red-and-yellow-centered creature which decorates the rocky and wooded hillsides of the West. This one is purple-blue. It is a garden species. In fact it is not a native American flower at all. Aquilegia vulgaris is European. (Tip, St. Louis! Awake Hiram Johnson! Do not permit this symbol of foreign entanglement to become the national flower.)

"NO QUESTIONS ASKED."

From the Fort Worth Record-Telegram.

THE New York Law Review regards as "an offense against good citizenship and highly reprehensible" the practice of advertising for the return of lost or stolen goods or valuables with "no questions asked" as an additional inducement to a reward. It suggests throughout the article that such attitudes on the part of the public are direct concessions to lawlessness rather than any co-operation with the law and its officers. It further suggests that it is breeding a new species of thievery, that of taking something, not for the theft of the article itself, but for the consequent reward that will come with nothing of embarrassing inquisitiveness on the part of the victim. It asks: "How does the law regard such advertisements, and how the restoration of stolen property in reliance thereon? In England, so to advertise is, and has long been, forbidden by statute. And it sets out many of the reactions from the enforcement of the statute, all of which have a direct tendency to effect a better contact between the public and every department of the law. It might be added that the value of such a law was discovered in the reign of George II. It, therefore, might have found its way into the legal precedents we took over with independence. Unfortunately, it and a number of other more or less elemental ones failed to register as important."

FORD'S FIVE-DAY PROBLEM.

From the Kennebec Journal.

T O Ford's advocacy of a five-day week the opponents reply, "Can a Ford car coast as many miles in five eight-hour days as it can in six eight-hour days? What's the answer? Probably that a human being isn't a Ford car, though he does have limitations."

BASEBALL.

From the Detroit News.

IT is a remarkable thing that organized baseball has never really attempted to solve the problem of wanting interest at the tail-end of the regular season when 16 or 12 teams are definitely out of the race for places in the World Series. Yet if there were means of sustaining interest in the league races to the end, not only would club owners profit, but the temptation would be largely, if not wholly, removed from weaker teams to slough games to favorite opponents for friendship's sake or any other consideration. Whatever the truth may be about the "scandals" aired in Chicago, it is most significant that they deal with incidents at the end of a season when one team was a flag contender and the other was out of the running. Obviously the only way to remove this temptation and incidentally to hold the public's interest to the season's close, is to provide a strong incentive to every team to play its best ball to the very end. Something has been tried along this line in giving first division clubs a small cash in the world series money, but plainly this is not a solution. What is needed is an arrangement in which every team participates in the money on the strength of the year's showing. Instead of a world series involving only two teams, close the season with a sort of national baseball carnival in which all 16 teams take part, each team in either league to play the team finishing in the same place in the other league. The receipts of all these games would be pooled, the winner of the world championship to take a large cut, the loser the second largest, the winner of the series between second place clubs to take the third, the loser the fourth, and so on. The series would be played simultaneously and at the same hour in the various cities, and in each park would be posted a large score board showing the detailed progress of the games (including the world championship games) in the other cities.

ROBERT BURNS.

For Robert Burns' Birthday.

In every age, since time began Poets and sages left their mark
To pacify the life of man
And light the road so dark.

When Burns was born, the world was young Compared with what it is today.
The simple folk he walked among
To whom his greatest songs were sung Deep thoughts, or simple lay.

They sensed his worth, they gave him praise.
They called him great, and great he was.

His poems set the world ablaze.
They altered life in many ways.
And modified the laws.

In strident verse he showed his soul
Of hypocrisy in Kirk and State.
Of false dominion they were short.
He made them wish they'd never been born.

To preach their cult of hate.
In lighter vein, of love he sang.
As never man had sung before:
The love of love he sang: "Och, Lassie, Lassie, will ye gang."

Full oft he sang that ye gang.
The liberty and rights of man.
Before his day were little known.
His stirring protests first began
The breaking of that evil plan
Which kept all freedom prone.

Unlike the products of his mind,
Burns' life was bitter, short and sad.
But at the close he left behind
A heritage to all mankind.
To make all people glad.

of Making Many

A Real Realist

PLAYS. By Sean O'Casey.

Two plays here presented—"Jun and the Paycock" and "The Shadow of a Gunman" and "The Plough and the Stars." These plays have been published in book form year after year. This new edition will, and will, no doubt, greatly increase the number of Sean O'Casey's admirers.

The time is that of the guerrilla warfare between the "irregulars" and the "Black and Tans" in the early twenties—a time when the people were in a state of panic, and the terrors of man's more inhumanity. The leading characters are the people of the tenements, but the tragedy, though developed in a tenement, is the same as that which the great dramatists of the past have found in the lives of Kings and Queens.

"Jun and the Paycock" is the larger and more powerful of the two plays. Its rather odd-sounding title names two of its principal characters—Jun, the harassed and courageous mother, the bearded wife of a pusillanimous and irresponsible father, struts blindly through the deepening gloom of things. The action is concerned with no more than the dying of a family—like the light of a lamp unlit, and the end of it is the smell of a charred wick in darkness. But, strange as it may seem, the play is not lacking in humor, and not even the character of the father fails to arouse the sympathy of the reader.

In both plays, O'Casey rather gives the women the better of it, making them by far the nobler in their capacity for self-sacrifice. Perhaps this was inevitable in the realistic handling of his material: for it is only the deepest instincts that are sure to survive the moral paralysis of extreme poverty, and most men have no self-sacrificing instinct equal to that of mothers fearing for their own.

O'Casey is as much a realist as any man writing in this time could be on realism; but, unlike many authors, he does not forget that overtones of meaning are essential phases of human reality. Accordingly, out of the drab chaos of his facts something beautiful and wise and pitying emerges and is felt profoundly, although it is nowhere stated. It is by virtue of that something else which permeates his plays that Sean O'Casey deserves to be called an artist.

"YOUNG WOOLEY" IS FINE DRAMA

Glenn Hunter and Mary Servoss Splendidly Portray Story of Youth and Love.

By H. H. NIEMEYER.

A SINGLE page torn from the story of the life of an English school boy, "Young Wooley," which came to the American Theatre last night, is an eloquent and touching tragedy of adolescence, as fine a drama of youth and love as it has ever been our privilege to witness. And yet, it is not a tragedy, for there were many who imagined that they were seeing a farce. They laughed at some of the lines which they hoped were meant to be suggestive and one of the play's efforts to make a drama a perfect gale of merriment swept over the house.

Perhaps a lack of understanding that there can be such a thing as innocent boyhood in these modern times gave the impression that the author was spoofing. Or, what seems more probable, the movies have ruined the dramatic values of a large part of the theater-going public. Fine humor and fine pathos have been pushed aside by obvious and elemental comedy and bathos until an appreciation of the genuine is lost in a "mire of slapstick desire. Persons who have boasted themselves in an effort to find out what is the matter with the drama might well take a moment to see if there is not something wrong with the audience. It may be that the faults of the theater can be divided into two, a 50-50 basis with theatergoers.

The story of "Young Wooley" is already well known, thanks to its long run in New York. Roger Wooley, a 17-year-old boy in the last few months of preparatory schooling for Cambridge, is a tall, gawky youth, all hands and feet and given to writing poetry and drawing. The housemaster of the boarding school, Mr. Parnham, is a compromising pedagogue who has no understanding or sympathy with youth. Past middle age, he is married to a young and attractive wife and he understands her as little as he does his charges.

The woman and the boy, both lonely and searching for the happiness which is due youth, stumble upon each other's arms, but the woman sees the impossibility of the situation and tries to prevent the youngster from losing his brain.

Compulsory Liability Insurance.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
MAY I say a word and invoke your editorial pen in favor of the bill in Legislature making insurance (liability) compulsory.

Concrete cases offer the best argument, so will state one for your and your readers' attention:

On the nineteenth of October, 1926, three boys were on their way home from night school. They stood on the corner of Finney and Taylor waiting for a street car. It was a dark and rainy night. An automobile driven by a girl (a minor) was so carelessly driven as to strike a lamp post and then the three boys—one of the boys was carried on the front of the machine through the glass window of a store. One of the boys has a fractured skull (will probably never make a complete recovery), one has a dislocated shoulder and the third was so cut and bruised he almost died in death—had a blood transfusion and after three months is barely able to be about. The girl driver was admitted to bail before it was known that the injured had a chance to recover.

The automobile has been repaired and is in service.

None of the boys (nor the parents) has received one dollar toward the expenses they incurred while in the hospital or since they left it.

The girl's father owned the machine and permitted her to use it, so he is not liable. She has no property and is a minor and is still permitted to drive.

It would be a different story if this automobile owner carried insurance. The victims would at least have a slight chance of recovering the wages they have lost and doctor and nursing fees.

It is only the "devil-may-care" owner-driver who does not carry insurance now. The respectable, responsible citizen carries insurance for his own and others' protection at all times.

"Discontented Feminists."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WITH reference to your editorial "Discontented Feminists" (1-22-27), permit me, in behalf of the entire feminine world, to thank you for your sympathy; but with regard to your simile of the child who cried for the life-like doll, are you quite sure that she really did cry for it, that destiny has not thrust it into her unwilling hands?

Since Mother Nature provides everything in her kingdom with equipment essential to its peculiar state, is it not possible that man's unwillingness to play "fair" has caused "Dumb Dora" to grow wild? Anyway, isn't it rather a flimsy excuse to offer for his lack of "chivalry and decency"? M. E. K.

River Front Plans.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN MY day the busiest part of our city was the levee, with 10 wharf boats and boat lines going up and down the Mississippi River. Now, after the Government's venture in part restores our river to the place it should always have occupied as a means of transportation, we all at once make a stab at abolishing proper terminals for the oncoming water fleets. Let us see how we did this. So far, we built a costly dock at North Market street. Why at such an out-of-the-way place? Next, South St. Louis was too far from this dock. So we built another at foot of Rutger street, but the rail approach is supposed to be too weak to carry heavy loaded cars. So, now there it is. Next our Mayor and some architects went to Chicago to view the water front there. A short time after this a sketch appeared, purporting to show our water front needs, viz., a piaz extending from Valentine street to Morgan street. To help river traffic, I suppose? When, oh, when will we ever get to earth again?

Suppose we forget all this dream of beautifying a section of our city that was, and now is only the logical place for business that is built up by traffic. Why not put Commission Row on the levee? It is a kind of business that should be where freight is handled. If the Third street scheme for a double-deck street is feasible, why not build large warehouses east of it, and store automobiles in them up to the top floors, by proper lifts and ramps? But don't mix the business needs of the water front with plans for beautiful parks, where smoke will not even let grass grow.

Street Car Improvement.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

REFERRING to some recent letters in this column upon the subject of street car crowding. If the United Railways Co. would make vestibuled two-car trains from a number of its old-model cars, they could add greatly to their service without additional cost in wages. Costs incident to alterations of cars and power lead increase, seemingly, would not be an obstacle.

W. R.

THE MEXICAN DEBATE.

The Senate debate on Senator Robinson's arbitration resolution, which received the approval of the Foreign Relations Committee by a vote of 13 to 3, would be more enlightening and effective if Mr. Coolidge or Secretary Kellogg would lay all the facts and the communications touching Mexican relations and the land controversy before the country.

Mr. Coolidge has indicated his views of the Mexican question under shelter of the White House Spokesman, whose expressions of opinion in behalf of the President are irresponsible and not officially authorized. Through the spokesman the public gets a glimpse of Mr. Coolidge's mind, but it lacks definite information and authorized statements.

It is given out that Mr. Coolidge has authorized no one to speak for him in the Senate debate. He is detached from the debate, and is merely a listener-in. It is natural that Mr. Coolidge should want to find out definitely what public opinion is with respect to the Mexican controversy, before committing himself. But on the other hand Mr. Coolidge is the American representative in the controversy. He is the chief executive of the nation, in charge of its interests, and authorized to speak for it. He knows all the facts. He ought to take the American people into his confidence, at least so far as the facts are concerned, so that there may be an enlightened judgment on whatever ultimate policy we may decide to undertake.

Let us have an understanding on fundamentals. We are not opposed, and we believe that the great majority of Americans are not opposed, to the principle of property rights for which Mr. Coolidge is said to stand. We do not approve of confiscation of valid titles to land or mineral rights. We approve wholeheartedly of protection of American lives and legitimate American rights and interests. But there is no question of American lives at stake, and how far is the principle of property rights involved? Are they so far involved that we cannot stand for the principle of rights, and yet submit controverted questions to impartial arbitration? May we not submit even the question as to whether they are involved, and thus bring Mexico to the essential point in the controversy? Does Mexico herself insist upon confiscation?

The whole point is that we should have open, not secret, diplomacy, and we should be wholeheartedly for the settlement by arbitration of every adjudicable question in connection with the Mexican controversy. It is a matter of profound regret to thousands of admirers of Senator Reed of Missouri that he has taken a stand unqualifiedly against arbitration. It reveals his mind more nearly fixed than ever against the processes of peaceful adjustment of foreign relations and international controversies by the methods of reason instead of arbitrary ultimatums and force. Mr. Coolidge himself has not said that he was opposed to arbitration of the Mexican controversy. He has said that he favors the arbitration method whenever it is available, and has made it understood that he has an open mind on the question of applying arbitration to the Mexican problem. Senator Reed apparently is unalterably opposed to arbitration.

Meanwhile, there is abundant evidence of the sentiment of the American people, in the resolutions and representations made to the President by organizations and men of light and leading in all parties. The issue is of the highest importance, and is fraught with tremendous possibilities for the future.

CALL TO ARMS.

Isn't it about time the Illinois Antisalon League stepped into the breach for Col. Frank L. Smith and defended him against the calumnies of the United States Senate?

The league looked all the candidates over in the Illinois senatorial election, and supported Smith. It knew all about the slush fund made up for him in the primaries by the public utilities.

It knew everything the Senate knows. Where is it now? Smith was its man before the people of Illinois. Isn't he its man before the Senate?

Calro, Ill., was in darkness the other day, showing that small towns like to put on big city airs.

BAN JOHNSON'S EXIT.

Baseball's winter of discontent has had a crowded calendar. The dismissal of Cobb and Speaker, Risberg's unsavory memoirs, tattlings of suppressed scandals, the transfer of Hornsby to New York, a legitimate business transaction which revealed our national game as untainted by the faintest smudge of sentiment or sportsmanship, and finally the ousting of Ban Johnson from the presidency of the American League.

Johnson's day of usefulness had probably passed. His health is shattered. Regardless of that, there never was a man in baseball for Johnson and Landis. When the crookedness of the 1919 world series was belatedly exposed a full year after its occurrence, baseball faced its moral Waterloo. The harassed magnates knew something had to be done. They made a magnificent gesture by invading the Federal judiciary and hoisting Judge Landis to the cardinal of baseball, with royal prerogatives and royal perquisites.

That was really Johnson's finish. Caesar had been reduced to the second man in Rome. MacGregor's seat was no longer the head of the table. Napoleon was at Elba.

They came to bury him at Chicago Sunday, those American League magnates, and they did bury him, though the interment was gently conducted, with what Schopenhauer would call "the hieroglyphics of grief." Presently they will praise him. When that occasion arrives they will say:

Whatever of dignity baseball possesses today it owes to Ban Johnson. Before him it was more or less of a tolerated nuisance, a saloon annex, with colorful figures, to be sure, with an occasional man of force and character in its playing and administrative personnel, but hoodlumism in the ascendant. Johnson was a power for honesty, cleanliness, respectability. The Cobbs, the Speakers, the Hornsbys and all the other stars, the managerial eminence of the McGraws, the glories of ownership which has made so many magnates rich—the opportunity for all such careers is baseball's debt to Ban Johnson.

The king is dead. Long live the Panjandrum!

Thirty-five American university professors have petitioned Mr. Coolidge to arbitrate with Mexico. They are not, however, altogether the same professors who induced Mr. Mellon to forgive Europe her war debts.

BORAH'S DUAL NATURE.

Senator Borah can shake his mane and roar like a lion; he can also be bland as a pussy cat. His article in The Nation's Business is a thunderous warning against the evils of centralization. It shows Borah at his best, as a patriot who sees in the onward march of Federal empire the disintegration of our Government as it was constructed by the founders. He is truly eloquent as he views the results of the modern tendency to look to Washington to supply a magic cure for all our ailments. "Inspectors and spies," says Borah, "will leer upon the citizen from every street corner and accompany him hourly in his daily vocation. Taxes will be $40 per capita. Forty per cent of the national income will be demanded for the public expense. We will have a republic in name, but a bureaucracy in fact."

So speaks Borah, the statesman, the politician, hums another tune. The latter is the foremost advocate of prohibition enforcement, the symbol of centralization, in whose wake follows all the evils which Borah, the statesman, decries against. No other law or group of laws is as effective as the eighteenth amendment in putting gendarmes on every street corner to spy on the private doings of citizens, or in undermining the spirit in which the Constitution was written. No other law is such a drain on the taxpayers' pocketbooks.

No doubt there is some way of reconciling the dual nature of Borah, but we do not know what it is. We cannot trace the subtle line that leads from his generalizations to his particularities. On its face, the inconsistency is as broad as a barn door. It admits only of this explanation: that Borah's advocacy of prohibition is the sop he throws to his political ambitions. However melancholy a comment that may be upon a man who ranks so high in our public life, it must stand.

APPEAL TO REASON.

That mixing up art, letters and box constrictors with home rule was as good a way to defeat this good cause as any, has by this time become certain.

Our pre-eminent statesman and half-triggered diplomat, the Mayor of St. Louis, together with his short-sighted aids, would drag in with home rule the Library, the Art Museum and the Zoo, with the consequence that a very excellent objective has been lost sight of in a wilderness of bad ones.

It is not too late to withdraw the bills which the Legislature has easily identified as a mere effort to bring three more St. Louis institutions to the Republican pie counter. The Democratic Senate is not going to lend itself to feeding any more pie to St. Louis Republicans, so nothing of that sort is going to happen.

What should happen might happen by confining the legislative program of the city hall to something we can get and ought to have.

Only 45 people turned out at Kansas City to hear Almes McPherson, whose lecture tour looks as if it were going to be the first spring washout.

HOW TO GET ECONOMY.

Though Missouri is admittedly in great need of some plan of public economy, the State is in danger of not getting it from the present Legislature. Demagogism has raised its hypocritical head against the plan of the Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures, and legislators who do not want useless jobs abolished are declaring that the connection of the association with the Associated Industries is proof that the plan is just an attempt of capitalists to put something over on the plain people.

In this emergency, we, as a friend of the plan, desire to offer a suggestion to the Associated Industries. We propose that it abandon the Missouri Association for Economy, and employ instead a few professional reformers of the Antisalon League kidney to do its lobbying. The latter would do what the former could not hope to accomplish—to wit: it would make the economy issue a moral one, and hence make it appeal to the emotions, whereas, now, its appeal is solely to the intelligence. And if that alone would not insure its success the fact that professional drys were pushing it would certainly do so. A class of reformers who can induce a Government to poison its citizens ought to be able to get away with anything.

Charlie Chaplin's moral life may be terrible, but that doesn't make his antics as a comedian one whit less funny.

HERE'S HOW!

That mysterious person, the average man, has at last been identified. He has been routed out of his rendezvous by Senator Wadsworth of New York.

While discussing the dry law the other day Mr. Wadsworth called to the witness stand that chap whom we all have met so often but have never seen. The average man, he said, may know that his neighbor has bought liquor from a bootlegger, but does he notify the authorities? Not he. Again, the average man, in his normal social experience, has seen this law openly and incontrovertibly broken by his dearest friends in the presence of the loveliest ladies, but never a chirp from him, nor from the loveliest ladies, either.

So the average man is you and I and all the rest of us, male and female. He is everybody. And with everybody conspiring against it, how, asks the Senator, can this dry law be enforced?

There is one hope—"one struggling ray of light" in our history to wear the single star of a Brigadier-General. The dry law will be enforceable as soon as the scientists in the laboratory at Westerville, O., discover a process for Smodley-D-Butterizing the average man.

In a religious revival at Magnolia, Miss, the penitent people brought their playing cards, phonographs, radio outfits, the celebrated Book of Knowledge, and everything else that demoralizes and makes us worldly, and threw it on a bonfire. Then they went home in their automobiles.

THE NATIONAL FLOWER.

From the St. Paul Pioneer Press.
OF concern to every American who claims a prideful share in the sanctification of his country is Joint Resolution No. 215, sponsored in the House by Representative Sears of Nebraska. This bill would designate the columbine as the national flower. It directs the President of the United States to make it such by official proclamation. Now this is no infant crusade, sprung on an unsuspecting public without warning. It is a full-blown movement, venerable in years, backed by organization of enthusiasts, eager for converts and prepared to squelch dissent. Back in 1896 the Columbine Association, with offices in Boston, began urging that its favorite, become the national flower. Item: The proper name, suggests Columbus. Its common name, says Item. The bloom and its leaves are of component parts, says E. Pluribus Unum. But the argument and the symbolism are not conclusive. It appears that the sacred and scientific name of the species to be thus glorified is anemone vulgaris. And that, alas, is not our beloved red-and-yellow-centered creature, which decorates the rocky and wooded hillsides of the West. This one is purple-blue. It is a garden species. In fact it is not a native American flower at all. Anemone vulgaris is European. Up, Senator Borah! Awake Hiram Johnson! Do not permit this symbol of foreign entanglement to become the national flower.

From the Fort Worth Record-Telegram.
THE New York Law Review regards as "an offense against good citizenship and highly reprehensible" the practice of advertising for the return of lost or stolen goods, or valuables with "no questions asked" as an additional inducement to a reward. It suggests throughout the article that such attitudes on the part of the public are direct consequences to lawlessness rather than any co-operation with the law and its officers. It further suggests that it is breeding a new species of thieves, that of taking something, not for the theft of the article itself, but for the consequent reward that will come with nothing of embarrassing involuntariness on the part of the victim. It asks: "How does the law regard such advertisements, and how the restoration of stolen property in reliance thereon?" In England, so to advertise is and has long been, forbidden by statute. And it sets out many of the reactions from the enforcement of the statute, all of which have a direct tendency to effect a better content between the public and every department of the law. It might be added that the value of such a law was discovered in the reign of George II. It, therefore, might have found its way into the legal precedents we took over with independence. Unfortunately, it and a number of other more or less elemental ones failed to register as important.

FORD'S FIVE-DAY PROBLEM.

From the Kennebec Journal.
TO Ford's advocacy of a five-day week the opponents reply, "Can a Ford car cover as many miles in five eight-hour days as it can in six eight-hour days?" What's the answer? Probably that a human being can't. Ford car, though he does have limitations.

BASEBALL.

From the Detroit News.
IT is a remarkable thing that organized baseball has never really attempted to solve the problem of wanting interest at the tail-end of the regular season when 16 or 12 teams are definitely out of the race for places in the World Series. Yet if there were means of sustaining interest in the league races to the end, not only would club owners profit, but the temptation would be largely, if not wholly, removed from weaker teams to slough games to favorite opponents for friendship's sake or any other consideration. Whatever the truth may be about the "scandals" aired in Chicago, it is more significant that they deal with incidents at the end of a season when one team was a flag contender and the other was out of the running. Obviously the only way to remove this temptation, and incidentally to hold the public's interest to the season's close, is to provide a strong incentive to every team to play its best ball to the very end. Something has been tried along this line in giving first division clubs a small cash in the world series money, but plainly this is not a solution. What is needed is an arrangement in which every team participates in the money on the strength of the year's showing. Instead of a world series involving only two teams, close the season with a sort of national baseball carnival in which all 16 teams take part, each team in either league to play the team finishing in the same place in the other league. The receipts of all these games would be pooled, the winner of the world championship to take a large cut, the loser the second largest, the winner of the series between second place clubs to take the third, the lower the fourth, and so on. The series would be played simultaneously and at the same hour in the various cities, and in each park would be posted a large score board showing the detailed progress of the games (including the world championship games) in the other cities.

THE plays here presented—"Juno and the Paycock" and "The Shadow of a Gunman" and "The Unfortunate" are widely known, having first been published in book form years ago. This new edition will, no doubt, greatly increase the number of Sean

O'Casey's admirers.

The scene in both plays is Dublin

at a time when the guerdon between the "Irregulars"

and the "Black and Tans" in the early twenties—a time when to the domestic dreads of poverty were added the terrors of man's more various inhumanity. The leading characters are the people of the moments, but the tragedy, though developed in squalor, is the same as that which the great dramas of the past have found in the lives of kings and queens.

"Junio and the Paycock" is the more and more powerful of the two plays. Its rather odd-sounding merely names two of its principal characters—Junio, the haras-

ed and courageous mother, the hectoring wife of a pusillanimous waevel who, ignoring the responsibility

EUGENE TURPIN, INVENTOR OF MELINITE, DIES AT 79

Discoverer of Inoffensive Colors and Student of Explosives Also Made Self-Propelling Shell.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Jan. 25.—Eugene Turpin, inventor of melinite, is dead at Pont-à-Mousson, near here.

Eugene Turpin was born in Paris in 1848. For his discovery of harmless chemicals he was awarded a prize in 1885. He then began the study of explosives by experimenting with picric acid. In addition to melinite, he invented other explosives and a special detonator. In 1889, during negotiations with the British firm of Armstrong for the sale of the English patent on melinite, Turpin found that another officer, artillery Captain Tripplé, having acquired the secret of his invention, had sold it abroad. This he made public in a book and Tripplé was arrested charged with treason and convicted. Mr. Turpin, himself, was charged with having made public in his book documents relating to national defense.

He was pardoned in 1893 and exonerated in 1903 and was attached to the Ministry of War as an artillery expert. Turpin invented a self-propelling shell, endowed with a rotary movement, but it was rejected by French artillery experts as impractical.

RELICS OF ANCIENT AMERICANS

Prehistoric Artifacts From Washington Evidence of Trade Relations

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Evidence of trade relations between the prehistoric Indian groups in America has been obtained from archaeological objects collected for the Smithsonian institution in the Columbia River valley in the State of Washington. The relics were gathered and are now being classified by Herbert W. Kroeber, curator of ethnology at the National Museum.

Calumet pipes from Minnesota and pipes from Southwestern Pueblo region, analyzed and charred from Alaska, have been found from Southern California and dentition beads from the Pacific coast were some of the artifacts found by Kroeber in the prehistoric homes gathered in the Columbia River valley in the State of Washington. The relics were gathered and are now being classified by Herbert W. Kroeber, curator of ethnology at the National Museum.

THE CURSE OF THE HOKA-VIDES

As a manufacturer of detective yarns Walter S. Masterman is well known. He has the distinction of having designed no less a literary south than Gilbert K. Chesterton with "The Wrong Man," which was Masterman's first novel. When Chesterton's "The Wrong Man" was published, Masterman, who built Masterman, will build them. Ask the man who has read one. The 1927 Masterman novel is as nearly automatic as modern manufacturing methods could make it. It comes from a book store at the price of a book store. Buyers will appreciate the new shock producer, the automatic writer and the half-baked, "chance" in the latest shades of gray. Artistically speaking, the new model is vibrationless beyond belief.

out against a stone wall while chasing a shadow around it. Her delirious handling of the situation prevents a public scandal and in the end the boy leaves the school with his father to settle down into that gentleman's business, which happens to be soap.

The story is not important. It conveys no message, it does not intend to bring about a better understanding between fathers and sons, but it is magnificent and gripping drama, and so perfectly played that one seems to see the life being unfolded.

Glenn Hunter is the young Woodley. And, by his peculiar ability to look the part of a 17-year-old school boy, he conveys a sense of a thorough understanding of the character and his performance at all times reaches perfection, as does that of Miss Mary Servoss who is the Mrs. Sims, mother of the young Woodley.

A. E. ARNOLD, as the crabbed pedagogue, has an important part to perform and while his performance at first seems not to ring quite true, he, too, rises to the height of the occasion. The part of a father small but in the last act, Grant Stewart, as the young Woodley, is unusually fine. The playing of the school boy associates with young Woodley is entirely adequate.

Are You Troubled about your Advertising?

The principles of advertising practice are so widely known today that—despite real differences in the skill of those who prepare advertising—there are mighty few campaigns that are outright failures.

There are, however, many relative failures, and these are almost invariably due to lack of a clearly seen objective. The lack of such an objective also means absence of a standard of accomplishment, against which to measure the results of a campaign. Thus, 20% or 30% accomplishment often goes undetected and uncorrected.

Many an advertiser is troubled about his advertising, either because he feels that it is accomplishing too little for its cost, or—worse—because he is entirely uncertain as to whether it is definitely arriving anywhere.

Such an advertiser might find our way of going at the job refreshing. First, the goal! Second, a merchandising "idea" so apt that it sells itself to the salesman and helps them sell. And Third, a dramatic interpretation of this idea to the user, giving him a buying motive that replaces sales resistance.

This is what is meant by "merchandising" in advertising. This is what makes the difference between ordinary advertising practice and conspicuously successful advertising practice.

No advertiser has yet placed a higher requirement upon us in this regard than we place on ourselves. May we show you examples?

Purchase Another Step in Concentrating Production of Power and Light on East Side.

The purchase for $4,125,000 of the Venice power plant of the Illinois Power and Light Co. by the Union Electric Light and Power Co. of Illinois was announced today by President Louis H. Egan of the latter company.

The purchase is another step in the concentration of the production of wholesale power and light for the East Side in the new Cahokia plant of the Union company of Illinois, which is a sister company to Union Electric serving St. Louis and other Missouri side cities.

Simultaneously, the Illinois Power and Light Co. made for itself and its affiliated company, the Illinois Traction Co., a contract to buy a minimum of $1,000,000 of power each year from Cahokia for a period of 25 years.

The transaction nullifies the announced intention of the Illinois Power and Light Co. to build a large new power plant in the vicinity of the Illinois end of the McKinley bridge with which to meet increased demand for power and light from Granite City, Belleville and other communities in St. Clair and Madison counties and the increased demand for power from the traction company. Cahokia will assume the demand instead.

The Venice power plant of 30,000 kilowatts will be used chiefly as a standby plant for peak load demand, while the base load will be carried at Cahokia.

The Union Co. in anticipation of its purchase of the Venice plant has begun the construction of a steel tower transmission line between Venice and Cahokia at a cost estimated to be $1,000,000. This line will be owned by the North American Co. of New York, now have four power plants in this district tied together as one system—Cahokia, Ashley street, the Keokuk dam and the Venice plant.

The sale is subject to approval by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Union Electric Earned $3.60 a Share on Common Stock in 1926.
An earning of $3.60 a share upon the $30.00 share of common stock—common stock held totally by the North American Co. of New York—is indicated in the annual statement of Union Electric Light and Power Co. made public today.

The earning is equivalent to 12 per cent upon $30.00, which the books of the company carry as its actual investment in the property, with no allowance for intangibles nor for the wear in property values, such as are reflected now by the Public Service Commission in fixing rate bases for public utilities. The commission in 1925 found the investment cost of Union Electric property to be $22,000,000 and in 1926 and the $24,000,000 figure includes the company's statement of its additions since the earlier date.

Gross earnings increased during the year 11.5 per cent to $15,500,000 and net income 14.4 per cent to $7,200,000. The balance for depreciation and common stock dividends was $3,000,000. The Public Service Commission sets up 12 per cent for annual depreciation. Subtracted, the amount for common stock dividends becomes $3,421,000. Of this $1,140,000 was disbursed during the year in dividends and the balance added to surplus which has become $4,522,145, most of which has been re-invested in the property.

The company spent $4,125,000 for additions to its property in 1926, about two-thirds in its distribution system.

MINISTER HELD 5 DAYS IN JAIL BY WOMAN'S MISTAKE
Evangelist Preaching at Waterloo, Ill., Taken to Iowa, Released.

When Identity Becomes Known
By The Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Jan. 23.—After being forced by deputy sheriffs to undertake a 400-mile journey and spend five days in jail only to be found to have been a victim of mistaken identity, the Rev. William Grimm, evangelist, today returning to his home in Waterloo, Iowa.

On complaint of a deserted wife, who said that her husband, the Rev. Milton W. Delhorst, was preaching under the name of Grimm, the Waterloo minister was arrested on theory that he was the man. He was brought to Des Moines and lodged in jail, pending his arrest. At a hearing before Judge J. E. Meyers today, Mrs. Delhorst, however, she had brought the wrong man to the bar of justice.

The Rev. Mr. Grimm, assistant of his home in Waterloo, Iowa, spent his time in all entirely wasted, since he had assembled a material for a dozen sermons.

Slayer of Mayor Dies Suddenly.
By The Associated Press.
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 23.—Newman Eaves, who shot and killed Mayor Arthur Sison of Marion, Mo., in March, 1924, was buried at Lathrop, Mo., near here today. He died suddenly of heart disease at Lathrop, Mo., where he remained some months ago. Eaves left Missouri after he was fined $1000 in Circuit Court at Albany for manslaughter. The shooting was the climax of a bitter political campaign over the Ka-Kuk Klan.

Norway Rejects Disarmament.
OSLO, Jan. 25. A vote of 121 to 100 in the Norwegian parliament today rejected the proposal to accept the League of Nations' plan for the reduction of armaments.

stiff joints from CONGESTION
When the blood is interrupted, inflammation takes place, poisonous substances are made, and sharp pain and stiffness develop. You must reduce this congestion, restore circulation, soothe the nerves and relax the tight and irritated tissues.

BAUME SENGUE ANALGESIQUE BRINGS QUICK RELIEF
As soon as you have rubbed it well into the afflicted part, its penetrating warmth stimulates the flow of blood and the congestion subsides. Its powerful soothing ingredients go deep in the tissues, soothe the pain, relieve the stiffness and relax the muscles.

More effective than any other preparation for:
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Gout, Sprains, Burns, Bruises, Cuts, and Every Pain.
At all drug stores. Be sure and get the original French Baume.

Has No Gas Now!

Once a woman of her age had to be careful. She was not getting any younger. A Stuart tablet—small, white, round—was her friend.

Full Box FREE!
Every drug store has Stuart's Tablets. Or, if you don't, write to the F. A. Stuart Co., 100 N. 4th St., St. Louis, Mo. Get a free box of Stuart's Tablets for the next 10 days. And when you get it, you'll know why Stuart's is a boon and blessing.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS

Fat Is Not In Fashion

All styles call for slenderness, short skirts in particular. And most women, as you see, are meeting that requirement.

The easy, pleasant way is Marmola Prescription Tablets. They act by correcting the cause. No abnormal exercise or diet is required.

People have used them for 10 years. They have told and shown the results to others, and the use has grown. Now, in these days of slender figures, people are using Marmola in a very extensive way.

You see the results every where. Perhaps your own friends can tell them. If so, they will say that Marmola brought none but good effects.

Try this time-tested method, so widely employed today. Simply take four tablets daily and watch results. Soon you reach proper weight. A method used by millions and for 10 years, can be both right and effective. Buy your own stake, when you want it.

CORONER THINKS MAN WAS KILLED BY AUTO

John Mackintosh Was Reported to Have Slipped on Ice Sidewalk.

Coroner John Mackintosh, 55 years old, of 1714 E. 12th St., today reported that he believed a man had been killed by an automobile. The man, who was named John Mackintosh, was reported to have slipped on ice on a sidewalk and been struck by a car.

The coroner's report was made today after an investigation of the case. Mackintosh was found lying on the sidewalk near the intersection of 12th and Olive Sts. He was reported to have been struck by a car driven by a man named John Mackintosh.

Coroner's Verdict: Exonerates Driver Who Killed Man.

Hehrlein, at City Hospital, said he and Fleyster, who was a fur grader employed by the firm, had loaded the elevator skins on the second floor. The elevator was at the fourth floor and Fleyster was opening the door, he said, when the car dropped suddenly.

Officers of the company told po-

Why Men Create "Living Trusts"

MOST men of business affairs have family responsibilities. . . . They realize that business, though carefully managed, presents uncertainties. Enterprises occasionally fail as well as succeed, and fortunes are often wiped out or greatly reduced.

Yet, most business men realize that, barring death, their family responsibilities are a certainty. The children should be given fitting educations; the entire family should be assured continued comfort even though business reverses might occur.

That is why many business men have created "Living," or "Voluntary," Trusts with the Mississippi Valley Trust Company.

Cash, securities, and insurance are deposited with the Trust Company, which assumes the burden of investing funds, collecting interest and dividends, paying premiums, and the like. But most important—the agreement may stipulate that, in emergencies, the trust fund may be used to provide for the continuation of bodily comfort and cultural advantages for the creator of the trust and his family.

With this "haven of refuge" near by, business men feel more free to manage the remainder of their wealth, knowing that even if loss occurs their homes will be protected.

Our Trust Officers will be glad to consult with you concerning a "Living Trust"

What if tiny teeth do take great big bites?

HERE'S a golden promise to mothers of growing, active children—when, from tip to tip, the banana turns a golden yellow, when nature's germ-proof seal is generously flecked with brown, this fruit from the tropics becomes a most wholesome food.

This is why: In a ripe banana, the first step of digestion has already taken place. The starch content, you see, has been changed into sugars, easily digested. Best of all, these good-tasting sugars are just the energy-making carbohydrates that restless little bodies need. They are the energy elements, too, that athletes find a necessary part of their training diet, that doctors and dietitians endorse as natural health-builders for old and young in every walk of life.

So buy bananas by the hand. They will ripen just as well in winter as in summer if kept in a warm room. Once flecked with brown, they are one of the tastiest, most healthful, most easily digested foods your family can eat.

Over eight different recipes for serving bananas have been prepared by Camille Des Dorees. They are all contained in a new color book, "From the Tropics to Your Table." If you would like to receive these new appetizing dishes, send the coupon.

SUGAR TARIFF REPORT ON 1924 HELD UP, BURGESS SAYS

Accuses Majority on Tariff Commission of Blocking Moves to Hasty Action.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The report of the Tariff Commission on the sugar tariff for 1924, which was held up for a long time, has been released today. The report, which was prepared by the majority of the commission, is a long and detailed document. It contains a number of recommendations for the reduction of the sugar tariff. The report is expected to be a landmark in the history of the sugar tariff.

the greatest improvement in plumbing fixtures in a generation!

This sink cannot be discolored or roughened by fruit or by vegetable acids

Dozens of times every day your kitchen sink is exposed to the action of fruit and vegetable acids, such as lemon and tomato juice, and to the ingredients of cleansers. This is its hardest service.

For the first time you can get a gleaming white sink that stays gleaming white—in the face of fruit and vegetable acids.

You can leave a slice of lemon on this sink for hours, yet the finish will remain smooth and unblemished. Naturally such a sink is easier to keep clean, since the surface of the enamel is always bright and hard.

This development marks the climax of a long period of research by the largest manufacturer of sanitary Plumbing Fixtures. Just as "Standard" led the way with the one-piece sink set

"yard-stuck high", so "Standard" again leads the way with the one improvement called for to make the kitchen sink of utmost usefulness.

Baths, lavatories, sinks, laundry trays, in fact all enameled Plumbing Fixtures are made with this exclusive new "Standard" enameled finish and are being placed as rapidly as possible in all "Standard" Showrooms. A distinctive trade mark is impressed into the enamel on each, so that you may promptly recognize it. Won't you come in, see, and make comparisons? There is no obligation. This Showroom exists solely for this purpose.

FLYER IN GRAIN RUINED HIM, MERCHANT SAYS

Bankrupt Resident of Cata-wissa, Mo., Testifies He Lost $3100 When Wheat Fell.

A "little flyer" in grain was men-tioned as "one of my biggest down-falls" by Bernard Schetz Jr., gen-eral merchant, former bank presi-dent and leading citizen of Cata-wissa, Mo., yesterday in bankrupt-ry court in a hearing on his vol-untary petition, showing that his various enterprises were ruined with $15,728 debts and $19,651 as-sets, some of them hard to turn into real money.
He was in the general store busi-ness, he related, off and on since 1902. He had noticed that he seemed to be getting deeper and deeper in debt, but figured he could fight his way out. A year ago he started to take inventory, but gave it up as a bad job when his stock appeared smaller and his debts larger than he had expected.
"I guess I didn't want to face the facts," he admitted. He was asked what he dealt in. "Groceries, hardware, shoes or clothing?"
"Yes, and undertaking goods, railroad ties and grain," he added. "Buying wheat was one of my big-gest downfalls. I lost $1500 on it one year and $1200 another."
"Can you explain how you lost that?"
"That's easy. I paid $2.45 and $2.75 when it was quoted at $2.50, and before I could get it on the market the price dropped and two carloads went a $2.45 and $2.75."
He was safely out of that busi-ness, he said, because he had sold his elevator and strip adjoining the railroad right of way for $1700 to the local Farm Club.

BUT—what if you were unmercifully lashing your own willing eyes?
WITHOUT knowing it, you may be doing that very thing. True, you feel no discomfort. But—uncon-sci-ously the eyes are overtaxed and goaded into seeing well. It's like whip-ping a tired horse until he manages to pull the too heavy load.
NO one can escape the penalty. The effects of eye-strain are not al-ways felt in the eyes themselves. Headaches, indiges-tion, mental depression and nervous exhaustion are warn-ings that your eyes are being whipped.

DEPOSED HEAD OF COMPANY GETS 10 DAYS FOR CONTEMPT

John M. Nimocks Sentenced for Failure to Surrender Invest-ment Firm's Records.
The failure of John M. Nimocks, former president of the Ideal Investment Co., a Negro real estate concern, to turn over books and other records to his successors, Wil-son Dawson, caused Circuit Judge Hines yesterday to adjudge him guilty of contempt of court. Ni-mocks was fined $200 and sen-tenced to serve 10 days in jail.
Nimocks was not in court. The Sheriff was told to find him and bring him in. He is said to be in Chicago.
He was removed as head of the company by the board of directors several years ago. A citation for contempt was sought by the com-pany, which filed a suit shortly after the ouster to enjoin him from interfering with the business and to compel him to surrender the records.

ROBBERY WARRANT FOR TWO BOYS, THIRD OFFERS ALIBI

George Ottob, 19, and Lucian Bar-ton, 19, Admit Holding Up Oil Station.
Highway robbery warrants were issued yesterday against George Ottob, 19 years old, son of Dr. L. M. Ottob, of 2228 Vernon avenue, and Lucian Barton, 19 son of Dr. Harry K. Barton, of 2194 Maple avenue, who confessed three re-cent filling station robberies when arrested last Saturday. The youths are Jordan High School chums.
No warrant was issued against Leslie Scheer, 19, of 5267 Vernon avenue, named by the others, ac-cording to the police, as an accom-plice in one robbery. Scheer has de-nied the charge and offered to prove alibi. George Hall, 17, son of Allen Hall, a real estate dealer, of 2182 Raymond avenue, implicated in another robbery, was turned over to Juvenile Court. All four youths are under bond.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan
Prescribed by Physicians for 34 Years
There are dozens of so-called "tonics" in the drugstore, most of which the medical profession laughs at. But there is one—Gude's Pepto-Mangan—that has been prescribed by physicians regularly for over 34 years.
Your doctor will tell you why, if you ask him. He'll explain the tremendous tonic power of this special combination of organic iron and manganese. He'll tell you how quickly assimilable it is, acceptable to the most sensitive stomach. He'll tell you that before physicians prescribed it its prompt tonic action was demonstrated by hundreds of scientific tests.
This is expert advice—the best advice you could get. Your druggist has Gude's Pepto-Mangan in both liquid and tablet form.
What Doctors Say:
"I have obtained very good results with Gude's Pepto-Mangan."
"I have used Gude's Pepto-Mangan (liquid) for about 25 years and have recommended it profes-sionally to scores of people in need of a good tonic, with very gratifying results."

ESTATE OF ARTHUR H. BURG BEQUEATHED TO WIDOW

Will Made Oct. 3, 1921, Names Mrs. Burg and St. Louis Union Trust Co. Executors.
The will of Arthur H. Burg, who was found dead in Forest Park last Thursday, was filed for probate yesterday. He bequeathed his property to his widow, Mrs. Bird K. Burg, 6225 Pershing avenue, and appointed her and the St. Louis Union Trust Co., of which he was a vice president as executor. No estimate of the value of his estate was made.
A Coroner's verdict held that Burg committed suicide, his death being from a bullet wound. He had been overcome by gas in the rear of his home on New Year's day, since which time he had com-plained of feeling ill. His will was made Oct. 3, 1921.

SMOKE ABATEMENT PATROL WORKS IN RESIDENTIAL AREA

Seeking Out Furnaces and Boilers in Effort to Reduce Output of Chimneys.
A smoke patrol of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League has be-gun operation in a city block in the central residential part of the city to find furnaces and boilers causing excessive smoke and to seek the co-operation of householders in reduc-ing the chimney output. Similar work was done in a West End block, bringing the league and trained smoke abatement in-spectors who wish assistance will be offered the services of ex-pert craftsmen to show how to burn less smoke, economically and with less smoke. It is intended to extend this patrol work when more funds are available.

Pointer McTyre Wins National Bird Dog Title

New Champion Is White and Liver Dog Owned by Jacob France of Tulsa.

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., Jan. 22.—McTyre, white and liver pointer dog, owned by Jacob France of Tulsa, Ok., and handled by Chesley H. Harris of Haystack, Mo., won the national championship bird dog trials which were concluded here yesterday afternoon. The victory came with it $1500 in cash, the title of national bird dog champion and a leg of the $2000 Col. Meriman memorial cup which must be won three times.

The success of McTyre did not come unexpectedly. Last Friday the great Tulsa pointer for which France paid $5000 when the dog was still an unfinished all-year prospect ran against last year's champion, Peasie's Mohawk, a setter owned by E. M. Tuttle, Jr. of Birmingham, Ala. He defeated the Birmingham setter so decisively that it became apparent to all of the spectators that unless some of the dogs that followed could surpass his heat he would be the champion for 1927. Nine dogs followed but they were unable to touch the performance of McTyre.

The race began last Monday and all dogs ran heats of three hours each.

McTyre, a fine upstanding pointer, had his origin in Alabama, having been bred by Ed Parrior, well known trainer of Tulsa, Ok., and his mother was still a puppy Parrior sold him for $150 to Scott Hudson, who campaigned him and then sold him to Mr. France, his present owner, for $5000. The dog probably will start once more and then be retired. His next start will be in the free-for-all, which begins at Tulsa Springs, Ala., the latter part of this week.

ROBERTSON AND DAVIS LIKELY TO GO

Kenny Williams, slated for sale after last Howley's appointment as manager of the Browns, has been taken off the market and will be retained, the Post-Dispatch learned today. Manager Howley has decided that he needs Williams' punch, and so the team will not be sold. Those who were sitting about the clubhouse in the most dangerous battle in the St. Louis uniform will again be in the outfield as Sportsman's first.

"We received word of this," Howley said, "but it was not until today that I was told of it. I am glad to hear of it. I got two buckets of coal for one of the club and I am sure that the team wanted to give us a row. I won't trade away my punch for a powder puff and I will keep Williams."

Howley is figuring on other trades. It is safe to guess that Ed Davis, Elam Vangilder, Joe Giard, Gene Robertson and Tony Rego will not be with the Browns when they return from training camp. The team's trade bringing three infielders and a pitcher will enable Howley to use Robertson in a trade. Several clubs have been considering trades involving Vangilder, Giard, Vangilder and Elam Vangilder. Vangilder may be given another chance. Howley said he was not at all sure of his own mind. He was not able to keep his feet in the trading after many years in the market. He may be given a shot at it. He may be given a shot at it. He may be given a shot at it.

Champion Latzo Gains Decision in Bout With Jones

Titleholder Lifts Youngstown Boxer Off Feet in Fifth Round.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 22.—Pete Latzo of Scranton, welterweight champion of the world, won the unanimous decision of the judges at the end of his 10-round bout with Jimmy Jones of Youngstown, O., here last night.

Lazo's title was not at stake as he weighed 150 pounds, five pounds overweight, and Jones weighed 155.

Jones took the first round by a shade while the champion was feeling him out. Jones best was a left to the head and in the second round then mixed it up with Latzo gaining a slight advantage in the exchanges. The third and fourth sessions were marked by furious onslaughts, with the principals standing toe to toe.

Lazo's clean punching gave him the edge in the two sets, but Jones fought back every inch of the way.

responsible by Dr. Blosser in his medical practice. This remedy is applied after smoking a certain combination of tobacco and herbs (containing no tobacco) in a pipe or cigarette. Dr. Blosser's Remedy produces a dense smoke vapor which is inhaled or forced into the Eustachian tubes leading to the middle ear. It penetrates to parts impossible to reach with balms, salves, sprays, poultices, pills, tablets, liquids and inhalants. "Constitutional treatment" is the key word. This remedy is absolutely harmless and is being used successfully by adults and children.

You can get from any drug store a small, neat, pocket-size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes and know for yourself their pleasant beneficial effects.

U. S. STEEL LAST YEAR EARNED $199,004,741

Total Earnings in Last Quarter
Were $53,504,521, Report Reveals.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Directors of the United States Steel Corporation today declared their dividend of $1.75 a share on the common stock.

The dividend does not cover the entire year, but is based on the earnings for the last quarter. The total earnings for the last quarter were $53,504,521, compared with $42,220,467 for the same quarter last year.

The dividend is payable on or after February 1, 1927, to shareholders of record as of January 15, 1927.

The corporation also reported that its earnings for the last year were $199,004,741, compared with $187,000,000 for the same year last year.

COTTON CLOSES LOWER ON NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The cotton market today closed lower on the New York market. The price of cotton fell from 12.15 to 12.10 cents per pound.

The decline was due to a combination of factors, including a large supply of cotton from the South and a weak demand from the North.

The market was also affected by the fact that the price of cotton in the West was higher than in the East, which led to a shift in the balance of trade.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Cotton futures today closed lower on the New York market. The price of cotton fell from 12.15 to 12.10 cents per pound.

NEW YORK RUBBER PRICES

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Rubber prices today closed lower on the New York market. The price of rubber fell from 1.15 to 1.10 cents per pound.

The decline was due to a combination of factors, including a large supply of rubber from the South and a weak demand from the North.

POULTRY MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Poultry prices today closed lower on the New York market. The price of poultry fell from 1.15 to 1.10 cents per pound.

The decline was due to a combination of factors, including a large supply of poultry from the South and a weak demand from the North.

Bids for Leviathan Rejected.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The Shipping Board has rejected all bids for the liner Leviathan and other ships of the United States Lines. Chairman O'Connor emphasized that the board has not considered rechartering the ships for sale and that it was its intention to continue to operate the line.

MOVIES AND NOVELS CALLED DRY LAW FOES

W. C. T. U. President Also Tells Conference Hosts Serving Liquor Foster Violations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Hip flasks, current novels, motion pictures and society matrons who continue to serve their guests wines and champagne are among agencies contributing to the disrespect of prohibition. In the opinion of Mrs. Ella Roole, Brooklyn, national president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Her views were set forth in an address prepared for delivery today at the opening of the national conference of the Government of the effects of prohibition on industry and national life will be proposed by the conference, Mrs. Roole said. Mrs. Roole said the United States "is not doing its duty in its prohibition because certain classes refuse to obey the law. We charge that even some reputable newspapers, through their editorial and news columns, and cartoons, are contributing to disrespect for the law and are responsible, in large measure, for the situation we meet to discuss. We charge that some society leaders who continue to serve wines and champagne to their guests set a bad example to the rest of America. The claim they serve preprohibition stuff cannot always be proved and, at any rate, the very act of serving is keeping alive the appetite for drink and flouting the policy of the Government.

Contribute to Disrespect.
"We charge that leading magazines, current novels and motion pictures, which depict society high and low, as dependent on liquor for a good time, are contributing to disrespect of the law. The bootlegger flourishes because patrons buy."

Lincoln C. Andrews, in charge of the conference his fight before the Ways and Means Committee for legislation "is not progressing any too happily."

He also said he was not moving "that eagerness to get behind law enforcement" and that the people should be aroused to a sense of responsibility to their Government. Speaking of the Government's bill for creation of a single corporation to which the manufacture of medicinal whiskey would be entrusted, Gen. Andrews said such an institution could be made an effective prohibition unit "by cutting off the source of bootleg supply."

Declares Smuggling Is Cut.
Rear Admiral Frederick C. Billard, commandant of the coast guard, told the conference it was his belief that the amount of liquor now being run ashore from hovering liquor carriers on the North Atlantic seaboard was not one-fifth of the amount brought in before his forces began anti-run running operations.

Reviewing the difficulties besetting the mobilization of the coast guard for running down liquor smuggling, Billard said it should be realized "that the traditional habits of the best of sailor men from time immemorial are not calculated to develop enthusiasm for the elimination of all sources of liquor supply."

"When all good sailor men become total abstemious," he remarked, "I think public sentiment will have been pretty thoroughly won over in the interest of temperance."

$15,000,000 STOCK ISSUE APPEAL BY FRISCO RAILROAD
Application to U. S. C. Says Fund Is Desired for Funding and Rehabilitation Purposes.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—An application for permission to issue $15,000,000 in preferred stock and $13,886,000 in common stock prepared today by the St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad for submission to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

While it is the intention of the railroad to sell the preferred stock issue only, an issue of common is necessary because the preferred stock is convertible into common. The funds will return to the railroad's treasury $7,000,000 spent upon additions and betterments, meet the $5,000,000 estimated cost of the road's extension to Kinbrough, Ala., and provide a balance for use in rehabilitating the Muscle Shoals line.

Brewer Leaves $105,000 to Charity
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Charitable bequests totaling $105,000 are made to hospitals and orphanages in the will of George Ehrst, millionaire brewer, filed yesterday. The remainder of the estate, estimated at $28,000,000, goes to his six children, one grandchild and a sister-in-law. The will contains a provision expressing the wish that his brewing business be continued.

HASN'T FELT SO GOOD IN 20 YEARS

One package ALL-BRAN enables him to say good-bye to pills!

Read Mr. Awtry's testimonial as to what ALL-BRAN does in stamping out constipation.
"I'm a man 55 years of age, have had chronic constipation for 15 years. I have been taking all kinds of purgatives, scarcely—if ever—have a natural movement. Have spent a great deal of money and no permanent relief. . . . When I had used one package of your ALL-BRAN, I found I could discard my pills and tablets. I haven't felt so good in 20 years."

Joe W. Awtry, Atlanta, Ga.
You can get permanent, natural relief from constipation by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases.

with every meal. Guaranteed. Doctors recommend it because it is 100% bran.
Eat ALL-BRAN with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Use in cooking. Mix with other cereals. Served and sold everywhere. Ready to eat. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Recipes on package.

THE WOMAN OF IT—By—Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

Letting Georgia Do It

DIOGENES might have taken on an even harder job— Instead of looking for an honest man.

He might have sought a young woman "dragged" to the altar. Who was honest enough to admit that she did the kidnapping— if any!

We doubt if Diogenes could have found her.

Among the sweet, old-fashioned wives and mothers of Greece. But she exists in America and in the news!

Did you read, only a few days ago, of the former Miss Georgia Lowe, 16-year-old daughter of the State of Georgia, who, when her husband of two weeks was accused of abducting her?

Insisted that she, not he, was the abductor.

That, in short, he let Georgia do it! They fell in love at first sight, according to the dispatches.

He proposed when he was taking her to the movies.

But discreetly suggested that they at least "wait a couple of days."

"Let's go now," blithely replied Miss Lowe before going to get married.

Georgia.

And they did!

"Why, the idea of 'Sweetie' kidnapping me!"

She protested, indignantly, to the authorities.

"I'm the one who said, 'Let's go.'"

"And if there is any kidnapping charge."

"It is against me, rather than against my husband."

Now, there's what we call a candid young woman!

But candor is the only difference between her and so many other girls.

Who are the aggressors and inciters of matrimony.

Although they won't admit it.

"Every girl I know is dead keen on getting married."

A college boy inelegantly informs us.

He exaggerates, but at that he's probably 75 per cent right.

So long as marriage remains a meal ticket to women.

And a treadmill to men.

It is to the interest of most girls to marry as soon as possible.

While it is to the interest of young men to evade and elude capture.

Do they? The answer shows how often they "let Georgia do it!"

Let her lead them afterward!

Not every girl is as crude in her courtship technique.

As the Georgia Peach who wanted to know what he was waiting for. But by divers stratagems, wiles, fake hesitations, coy deliberations, planned flirtations.

And all the other processes known to feminine Freemasonry.

As "getting him going."

She sweeps her chosen victim into matrimony.

Before the poor darling has stopped wondering.

At her divine condescension in allowing him to be engaged to her.

Over these academic discussions of whether the woman SHOULD propose—

Since woman always DOES propose, in plan and act if not in word.

And no man marries but IS MARRIED.

Simply has "fessed up what every other girl knows."

Still, perhaps it's just as lucky that EVERY girl doesn't tell.

To let man think that, in love and marriage, he is the aggressor.

Has been for ages woman's good graft.

Why spoil it?

If West Point cadets don't believe in sex equality, after being given the right to smoke because their girl guests want to do it, our future officers and gentlemen are ungrateful wretches!

And dentists have just warned that women smokers contract and communicate "trench mouth," a painful and destructive disease of the gum tissue. How many girls do you know that have it? Let's hope it doesn't become epidemic at the Military Academy!

SO SORRY!

(For O. R. H.)

"Where are the boys you knew?" you ask.

Olive, could you but see each striving still at his daily task. Dreaming of such as thee!

"The sad young men" who really care.

Too often feel they do not dare hope for your fancied "yes."

Ah, Olive, you would not condemn Without their stories knowing?

Could you see the lonely way for them.

You'd truly mourn their going.

J. E. D.

HE ASKS TO KNOW.

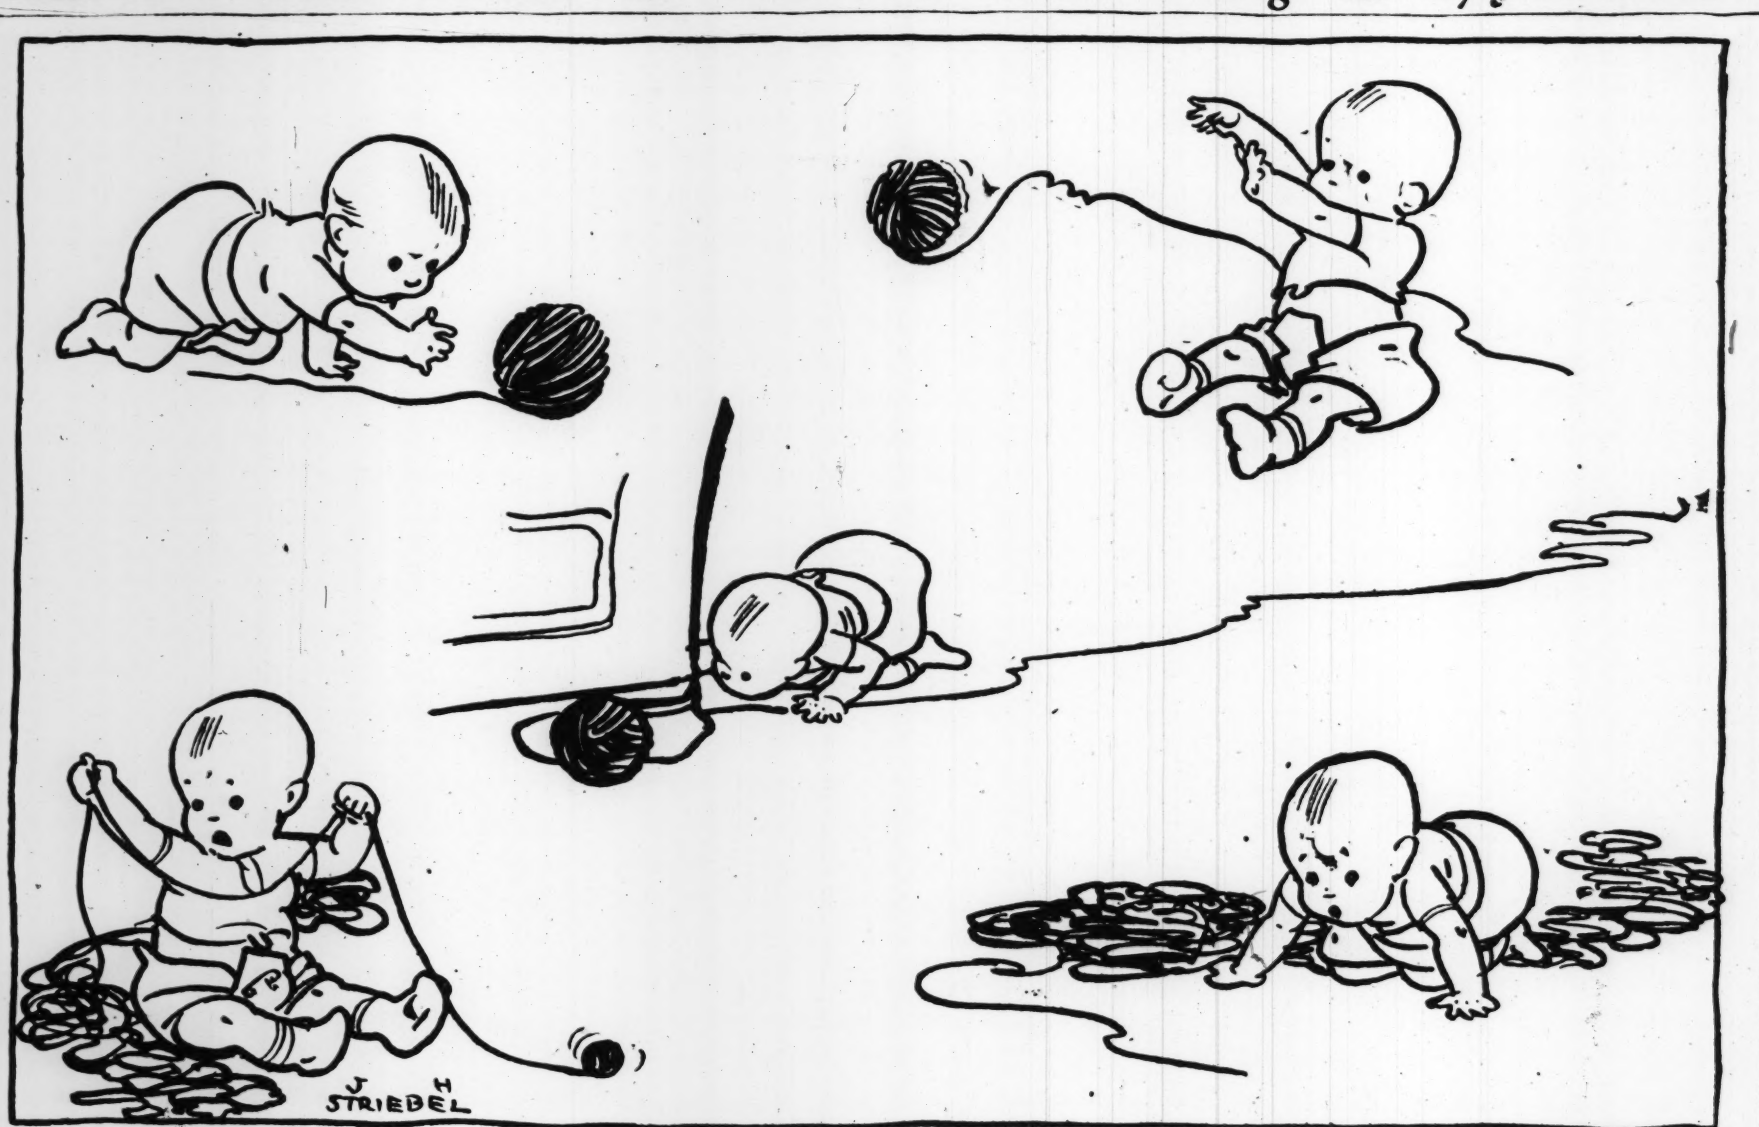

Under a streamer head, "Woman Achieving Success in Their Chosen Lines," the Telegram prints a photograph with the caption: "Mrs. Vera Agnes Huntington (Cravath, who obtained a Paris divorce from James K. Larkin, has just been married to William S. Gibbs)." "What," affrightedly demands the Professional Bachelor, "is the lady's line?"

Reasonable Relish.

Pit sliced prunes and fill with pimiento or finely chopped gherkin pickles. An excellent relish for roast meat.

ALL IN A BABY'S LIFE

Yarn With a Sad Ending By J. H. Striebel

Secrets of Health and Success

Chronic Fatigue and Tuberculosis.

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.
Former President of the American Medical Association.

IF YOU have brought your baby successfully into childhood, beginning at four years, you have even better chance of protecting him from tuberculosis for the next 10 years.

This simply means that, during this decade, the vitality of growth is so exuberant that the system resists invasion by the germs of the disease.

After the fifteenth year, however, the mortality rapidly mounts to a peak, which is reached between the twentieth and twenty-fifth years and is maintained up to the forty-fourth year.

This simply means that at the most valuable economic reproductive and intellectual age of the individual, both men and women, the stress of modern life tends to lower the resistance of the system down to the point of susceptibility. Aside from general stress there are such special causes as rapid childbearing, overwork, unhygienic conditions of living and working, insufficient rest, lack of proper and nutritious food and vicious social and economic conditions.

Much is done to seek out and treat adults already suffering from active tuberculosis, but little effort is made to prevent its frequent incidence.

In factories and other places where many wage earners are employed health propaganda must be disseminated. Employees must be examined on entry and physicians retained to examine suspects.

While these measures are excellent, their shortcomings are, first, that they are directed chiefly towards workers en masse, and secondly, that they are designed either for the supposedly well or the definitely ill.

The thousands working in small industries or as clerks, bookkeepers, stenographers, etc., unfortunately receive hardly any attention. There is a class of small wage earners of this kind who are neither ill in the ordinary sense nor well, but suffer from chronic fatigue—remember that, tired all the time—which, if it goes on, eventually results in active tuberculosis.

For example, a young woman is employed in an office. She works eight hours a day and has to travel a distance to and from her work. After a time she begins to feel tired, night and morning and all day. Her work becomes a burden, and finally latent tuberculosis takes the opportunity to become active.

Much so-called nervous exhaustion, as emphasized by E. O. Otis, is really tuberculosis.

Constant transgression of the fatigue limit undermines the normal resistance.

The periodic physical examination, so strenuously advocated nowadays, suffers from unpopularity, for the man in the street does not see why he should pay for being told that he is well.

Most office workers graduate from high schools and business colleges, and an examination at this time would be of much value, as would also periodic examinations thereafter to determine whether the occupation were causing fatigue, but, unfortunately, in his early struggles he can't afford the price. It ought to be possible for some one of the tuberculosis associations to furnish a competent examiner—as some of them, I believe, are already doing.

Much could be done by educating the worker in how to use his leisure hours and maintain his vigor and health.

Propaganda should be spread, especially among the young adults who attend night schools.

Preventive institutions for the prevention of disease—for those suffering from chronic fatigue—would prevent many from entering sanatoria later on.

"Everybody's Doing It"

By Lucrezia Bori

THE turkey walk is an exercise much neglected and one that is very beneficial. It strengthens the muscles of the thighs, legs and feet, thus improving the balance of the body.

Stand at attention, which means that the heels should be together with the toes pointing straight ahead, knees straight, but not too stiff, weight on the balls of the feet, body away slightly forward, arms at sides, abdomen drawn in, trunk stretched as tall as possible, neck held back and stretched up, shoulder blades flat, chin at such a level that you would look straight into your own eyes if you were standing in front of a mirror.

Then place the hands lightly on the hips, bring the right knee well up, keeping the leg straight down and the ankle flexed. Still keeping up the knee, extend the leg straight out in front of the body, pointing the toes still further forward. Still keeping the leg straight, lower it to the floor, a moderate step ahead of the left foot, letting the heel touch first. Lower the rest of the foot. (a) Raise the heel from the floor, stretching the leg straight out in front of the body, draw it back until the leg hangs straight down again, then lower the foot to the floor, letting first the toes, then the ball, then the heel of the foot rest on the floor. Repeat with the left foot.

After practicing this until all the different positions can be taken smoothly, go through the same movement, but instead of doing the last half of the exercise above, marked (a), walk ahead. To do this it will be necessary to bring the left leg forward as soon as the ball of the right foot touches the floor, then draw up the knee, let the leg hang, extend the leg, drop the heel to the floor, a moderate step ahead of the right foot, and while coming forward to the ball of the left foot, bring the right leg forward, raise the knee, and so on until you have walked across the room in this manner.

Vegetable Soup With Oysters. Make a vegetable soup using the same formula as for the tomato soup, only add the piece of fish and allow it to boil with the soup until it goes to pieces. Thicken this soup as already directed and strain it, then return it to the clean kettle and when it reaches boiling point drop in a dozen and a half freshly opened oysters and simmer them two minutes until the beads curl, then serve.

RECIPES FROM
"My Old Virginia Cook Book"

Chicken Chop Suey.

IN 2 cups of cold cooked chicken (cut in pieces), 1 cup of cooked celery, 1 1/2 cups of cooked rice, and a little salt and pepper. Melt 2 tablespoonsful of butter in a sauce pan and to this add 1 tablespoonful of flour and mix well. Then add to this slowly 1 1/2 cups of the water in which the chicken was cooked and bring it to the boiling point, stirring constantly. Now add to this the chicken mixture, heat thoroughly and serve.

THE RHYMING
OPTIMIST
By Aline Michaelis

QUERY.

DO you, sometimes, amid the hush of gracious twilight hours, look backward to the din and rush that taxes all your powers? The fiery conflicts of the day, the long-disputed prize, do you, when these have passed away, look back with wondering eyes? Do you the secret meaning tell of things you say and do, and ask yourself with dusk's sweet spell how much of this is you? Oh, of that inner self few know how much is given here? As day's full, fleeting hours go, what part have you made clear? How much of all your work and play—toils, care, when you are gay, is what you most desire? Do you, sometimes, as daylight dies, your joys, aims, hopes review and do you vow with tear-filled eyes to make them more like you?

Houses, houses and houses stretch for miles beyond the city and in none of them is there a room for the children—a sunny room with low window seat, little closets, a bathroom close by. Nor is there any garden where they may play in safety. If one family wishes to use their little patch of green for a play space the neighbors are indignant about their spoiling the value of the adjoining property. What is to be done about the children?

The only place I have ever seen that made provision for the coming of children was at Sunnyside, the settlement just across the river from Manhattan Island. In that delightful little village there were places set apart for the children and so arranged that they increased the beauty of the spot—and its value. And there is a park where the older ones might have their noisy team games without disturbing anybody. Cozy corners for little sand box youngsters so placed that the mothers can watch from the windows if they care to do so. The houses counted in a room for them, too. But that was in a village of houses. There are no huge structures of 10 and 20 stories edging the street line and hitting the sky.

Parents don't make this problem as important to housebuilders as it might. Houses and apartments are built for parents of children and if the parents began asking for accommodations for the children they would, in time, get them. Why not begin asking where the safe play space for the children is? Where the kindergarten provided for the block is located? The indoor play room and the outdoor play space? (Copyright, 1927.)

The Sport Models.

SPORT clothes are becoming more and more popular every year. Very luxurious is a new model of white chenille sport suit, softly printed in a border design of the color of honey. Clipped wool makes the collar, as it does on many others of these white sport suits, most effective.

Devotees of golf and hockey are apt to be particularly partial to the sweater costume. For tennis, however, the most novel costume is the sleeveless frock. An especially lovely model is of white crepe de chine with half-inch pleats beginning about the middle of the blouse and continuing to the hem of the skirt with the single interruption of an inset belt at the waist.

Thus, my Daughter, by quick thinking, shall a wise damsel get them going. But the foolish damsel is as a goiter that keepeth not her eye upon the ball.

MODERN HOMES.

AL about me houses are abuilding. Little houses with their patches of green and their sheltering trees. Tall apartment houses with no patch of green, and no space to right or left, before or behind.

Signs say, For Sale or To Let. One room, two rooms, three rooms, four rooms, five rooms, reads the sign on the tall apartment houses. Three to seven rooms, reads the sign on the little houses. And I, being interested in the children who are to come to live in these houses, peer anxiously into them and ask, "Where are the rooms for the children?"

"We don't take children," says the gruff man who is overseeing the last touches to the apartment buildings.

"Oh," say I. "What if they come?"

"Then they go," said he, delighted with his wit. "We don't calculate to have 'em."

The little houses then. Surely they will make place for the children. "Children?" Well you see these houses are built mostly for retired business people or else young people just starting out. Of course if they have children they'll have to get along as best they can just like other people. But we make no provision for them. You see if we made a bid for the children nobody would want to live here. So?" The kids make too much noise and they destroy everything.

Houses, houses and houses stretch for miles beyond the city and in none of them is there a room for the children—a sunny room with low window seat, little closets, a bathroom close by. Pointers on Auction Bridge

By MILTON C. WORK

THE pointer for today is: Declarer should not hold up if he can win the trick and still have a stopper left.

With three cards and two stoppers in the suit originally led, such as Ace-King-x or Ace-Queen-x, it is generally better to win the first trick, pass the second and take the third, rather than pass the first and take the second and third. There is always a chance—if the first be passed—that some other suit will be opened in which the Declarer may not have two sure stoppers.

The taking of the first trick is especially important when doing so makes another stopper in the suit and failing to do so would not. For example, suppose Closed Hand (South) has Ace-Jack-x and Dummy (North) has Ace-Queen-x. West leads a small card and that East plays the King, holding up would limit the Declarer to one trick in the suit because East would immediately return the lead through South's Ace-Jack; but Declarer, if he won the first trick, would have a good chance of taking another because his Jack-x probably would be led up to. In this case, the usual location of the danger hand would be reversed and Declarer should plan his campaign with the idea of keeping the adverse lead on his left, rather than on his right. A similar situation would occur with a holding of Jack-x in Dummy and Ace-Queen-x in Closed Hand, or some such holding as a singleton Queen in Dummy, Ace-Ten-x in Closed Hand, and the play of the adverse King.

There are occasional hands in which a Declarer, in order to win the game, should sacrifice the ability of winning a second trick in the suit. Suppose, for example, he has small cards in Dummy and King-Queen-x in Closed Hand, and a small card (not the lowest) in the suit of the lead. Jack, by winning the trick he would have the suit stopped against a lead from his left, but not against a lead from the right. The only long suit to be played there, and that of the Queen (like Ace-Ten-x in Closed Hand), and if making four tricks in that suit would ensure game. Declarer should pass the first trick, deliberately giving up the hope of a second trick in the adverse suit, so as to exhaust the adversary's right before the suit is exhausted. Such cases, however, are rare; as a general rule the trick should be won when it is a stopper, even if it be a stopper only should the suit be led by the adversary on the left.

Who ever gives way to POOR little Whitefoot! Did ever a little Woodmouse have such a hard time? Here he was being ordered out of his new home by Chatterer the Red Squirrel, who claimed that Whitefoot had no business there. You see, he claimed that that was one of his old storer houses and that those pine seeds that were stored in there belonged to him.

"Yes, sir, those seeds are mine," declared Chatterer. "You don't think I stored them up for you to eat, do you? Now you get out of here and be quick about it!"

"My, how ugly Chatterer's voice sounded!"

Whitefoot hesitated. You know he had nowhere to go. It seemed to him that he just couldn't leave. But when Chatterer made a rush at him, Whitefoot didn't stop to argue. He is such a little fellow that he is no match at all for Chatterer the Red Squirrel. He knew that to hang about and offer to fight would just result in an end to everything so far as he was concerned. So Whitefoot took to his heels.

But at first he didn't leave that old stump. He raced around inside with Chatterer after him. You see, it was a big stump and there was plenty of room inside. In fact, there were several rooms in it with little passages between them. So Whitefoot began a game of hide and seek with Chatterer trying to find and catch him. All the time Chatterer was growing angrier and would not only Chatterer can't find him, but he thought that nothing less than the robbery of all his storehouses had taken place.

He warned Whitefoot that if he ever came back, he, Chatterer, would kill him. The worst of it was that Whitefoot knew that Chatterer was quite capable of doing it. Poor Whitefoot! He hadn't anywhere to go and it looked very much as if he would have to go home for a new home, just as he had been ordered out of his old one. Whitefoot, though he may be timid, isn't stupid. There are bright spots in that trim little head of his.

If there were not, he wouldn't be alive. No, sir, he wouldn't be alive. So, though of course he felt bad, he didn't despair. Indeed, he was very far from despair. Whitefoot is one of those who says that anyone who gives up to despair just cheats himself. He knows that. He knows. If there is anyone in all the Green Forest, or in all the

When you buy 40-Fathom Fish, you get fish that are absolutely fresh—never frozen. Not cold storage fish, not salt fish, not fresh water fish, but the finest deep-sea had-dock, right out of the ocean. Just as if you caught them yourself!

40-Fathom Fish are ready for the fire. You don't have to clean them. Heads, tails, fins, backbones, scales and all waste are removed at the pier. Then the prime, tender filets are wrapped in pure parchment, packed in iced containers and fast-expressed to your dealer. You buy nothing but delicious fish meat—"the beefsteak of the sea."

Enjoy a real shore dinner right here in St. Louis. Ask your dealer for 40-Fathom Fish. The genuine 40-Fathom brand—the fish that is guaranteed fresh—has the 40-Fathom name and trademark on the wrapper. Look for this name and trademark. Protect yourself and family by refusing all substitutes. If it isn't wrapped, it isn't 40-Fathom.

Feather Fans.
NEW YORK—The feather fan is an accessory which no smart woman omits. They furnish a most dignified and graceful finish to evening dress, and are especially adapted to the ostrich plumes. Lovely effects in the blue and mauve tones are obtained with dyed coq feathers rising from a base of shorter feathers with tinsel and gold or silver. The sticks often glitter with gold, silver and gems.
